2 MEN HURT IN EXPLOSION AT MALDEN

Two men were injured and residents of nearby buildings were terrified when a three-story wooden house at No. 262 Bryant street, Malden, was partly wrecked by a gasoline explosion at 10:30 a. m. today. The damage was $300.

Abraham Bromberg, employed by his brother, Nathan Bromberg, who conducts a tailor shop in one of the store buildings, was in the basement cleansing a suit of clothes in a tub of gasoline. In the basement was a kerosene lamp used for heating water. The light from the lamp ignited the gasoline fumes and caused the explosion.

Bromberg was blown against the basement wall and his head, hands and body were badly burned. Morris Valinsky, who runs a shoe-making store in the building, was thrown from his chair. Bromberg, who was suffering from his injuries, was placed in the police ambulance. On the run to the hospital the horse "Prince," drawing the ambulance, dropped dead. Driver Costello had to take Bromberg out of the ambulance and carry him to the hospital, a short distance away. Valinsky was attended in his store by Dr. Pablo.

DYNAMITERS BLOW UP SAFE IN POSTOFFICE

PITCHBURG, Sept. 5.—Four masked men dynamited the postoffice safe at 4:20 a. m. today at East Templeton, but because of the fact that Postmaster F. A. Reynolds took the cash to his home last night they got nothing. The force of the explosive used not only wrecked the safe, but blew the letter boxes to pieces.

The report of the dynamiting awakened Thorner Sargeant, who lives near the store of Charles A. Rand, in which the postoffice is located. Sargeant stuck his head out of a window in time to see a masked man, revolver in hand, walk out of the postoffice door. The burglar saw Sargeant. "Duck back there," ordered the masked man, "or I'll shoot."

Sargeant "ducked." The town was soon aroused, but the burglars got away.

Wolgast Hurt; Bout With McFarland Off

CADILLAC, Mich., Sept. 5.—Ad Wolgast, lightweight champion of the world, seriously injured his right arm today while cranking his automobile. After an examination his physician ordered him not to do any fighting for a month. As a result he will be unable to fight Packey McFarland in September.

PENROSE AND HILLES MEET IN CONFERENCE

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Senator Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania, who is in a controversy with Colonel Theodore Roosevelt over Standard Oil contributions to the Colonel's cause in the campaign of 1904, came here from Philadelphia today upon what he believed to be an important mission. He held a conference with Chairman Hilles of the Republican National Committee.

O'KEEFE LAUNCHES MAYORALTY BOOM

Major P. F. O'Keefe's boom for Mayor was turned loose at City Hall today. Several of his supporters visited School street today to sound city officials on the question of his candidacy. Major O'Keefe is exalted ruler of Boston Lodge of Elks. He has been prominent politically, although never a candidate for office.

BIG NEW YORK OIL FIRE.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Sparks set fire to the plant of the Monroe County Oil works today and a series of explosions followed, blowing the dome from an 8,000 gallon tank of benzine. About 32,000 gallons of benzine burned and the loss is $50,000.

ROOSEVELT GETS LIVELY GREETING IN MINNESOTA

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 5.—A lusty brass band awakened Colonel Roosevelt at the Union Station here at 7 a. m. today, when his train arrived from Des Moines. When the Colonel appeared on the platform of his car he was met with a tremendous whoop. Roosevelt observed that Minnesota appeared to wake up early in the day.

"We have been awake a long time," came the reply. "We're going to stay up until we elect you."

The ex-President was taken to breakfast at the St. Paul Hotel, after which he shook hands with the Minnesota leaders. He was assured that the Progressives were putting up a good battle, and that the Colonel would carry the State in November.

At 10:30 o'clock the ex-President left for the State fair grounds in Minneapolis to deliver an address at the agricultural

BIGGEST MACKEREL CATCH AT T WHARF

Five vessels brought to T wharf today an aggregate of 150,000 fresh mackerel, the largest number that has been brought to the wharf this season. The fish were small, averaging only about one pound each, but found a ready market at from six to eight cents each. The mackerel were caught off Chatham yesterday, and the fishermen report immense quantities schooling off the Cape.

LABOR PROTESTS TO STATE HEALH BOARD

The State Board of Health gave a hearing today on a protest of the Lynn Central Labor Union against the recommendations of the board that the number of hotels districts in the State be reduced from twelve to ten. As a result of the recommendation, the health inspector in Essex, who heretofore has had nineteen cities and towns in his district, will hereafter have thirty-two cities and towns. The board took the matter under advisement.

VOTE ON STRIKE AT NEW BEDFORD TODAY

NEW BEDFORD, Sept. 5.—The striking weavers vote today on the question of continuing the strike. The sentiment of the South End weavers is for sticking it out, it is reported. The question is if the strikers vote to remain out will enough operatives report to make the opening of the mills Monday a success.

Gov. Pothier Makes Good for the Thefts of Woman Cousin

FALL RIVER, Sept. 5.—Upon the promise of Governor Pothier of Rhode Island to make restitution for stolen property, Judge Cook in the Second District Court today suspended sentence in the case of Mrs. Alice Lapointe, a second cousin of the Governor. She had been found guilty. With her ten-year-old daughter, Mrs. Lapointe left today for her childhood home in Canada.

Mrs. Lapointe was arrested about a week ago on the charge of obtaining goods, amounting to about $75, under false pretenses, at three department stores. She used the names of prominent people, whom she said she represented. Her attorney got Governor Pothier on the phone, and, rather than see her go to jail, he agreed to reimburse the department stores and furnish transportation for Mrs. Lapointe and her daughter to Canada if the court allowed her to go.

Mrs. Lapointe was a public stenographer in the Hotel Melleo.

LEE TO RESIGN FROM B. & M.

Charles E. Lee, for the past six years general superintendent of the Boston & Maine Railroad, is to resign as a part of the Mellenization of the Boston & Maine, according to a report today. He is to be succeeded by Traveling Transportation Manager McMullen of the New Haven road. Mr. McMullen has been at work in Mr. Lee's office for the past few months.

Neither Mr. Lee nor McMullen could be reached to verify the report, and nothing could be learned from the general offices of the combined roads.

The retirement of Superintendent Lee will cause interest all over New England, for he has been in the employ of the Boston & Maine for the past thirty-six years, rising from telegraph operator, train dispatcher, division superintendent and assistant general manager to general superintendent or chief operating official of the road, a position which he has held since 1906. He is fifty-two years old and lives in Winchester.

GARFORD HEADS THE PROGRESSIVE TICKET IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 5.—Arthur L. Garford of Elyria was today nominated for Governor by the Ohio State Progressive convention by acclamation.

L. J. Talor was nominated for Lieutenant-Governor, John J. Sullivan for Secretary of State, Charles L. Allen for Auditor, William Kietly, Jr., for Treasurer, and Robert Nevin for Attorney-General.

The reading of the platform provoked much enthusiasm. It denounced the political bosses and machine politics as relics of barbarism, and declared that the two old parties are boss-ridden and machine controlled.

"The old parties have failed to keep step with the age, and are no longer efficient instruments for safeguarding the common good, promoting the general welfare and securing industrial liberty and social justice," says the platform.

Governor Hiram Johnson of California addressed the convention.

U. S. PROBE OF DYNAMITE PLOT IS UNDER WAY

Asa P. French, United States District Attorney, began today the government inquiry into the Lawrence dynamite plot. He has received the instructions he awaited from Washington to start his investigation. The District Attorney said:

"Just what our first steps will be I haven't fully decided. The importance of the United States government entering into this matter has been much overestimated. Our investigation is simply to discover and punish any violation of the interstate laws. If we prove that dynamite was sent from another State to Lawrence, we will prosecute the offenders. But our investigation is of far less importance than the one for conspiracy which is now conducted, and with which we, of course, have nothing whatever to do."

Mr. French denied the story that his agents had been busy collecting evidence for some time past. "We have not started on the work at all as yet," he declared. "So far we have done nothing. Whether we shall call witnesses before a Federal Grand Jury, depends entirely on what we find. So far I do not know what developments there will be."

More indictments are expected after the Suffolk Grand Jury hears additional evidence, beginning Monday.

Several men more or less prominent in Lawrence mill activities will probably be called to testify. Some of these men, when asked whether they had received summonses to appear, declined to answer, while others said they had received no notification whatever that they would be called.

William Whitman, president of the Arlington Mills, which were involved in the strike, said:

"I haven't received any as yet. Of course, if they want me to go before them to give evidence, there'll be nothing for me to do but to go ahead and give it."

Off for Europe on an Hour's Notice to Save Tech Boy's Life

Frank B. Wheeler, the son of Mrs. Margaret Wheeler, a wealthy widow of No. 103 Hemenway street, Boston, began a race against death today across the Atlantic for the mountains of Switzerland. Young Wheeler is an ambitious Tech student. He worked hard this Summer to prepare to re-enter school this Fall. He fell ill, and yesterday a physician was called.

"This boy has tuberculosis—you must get him away or he'll die," was the doctor's verdict.

The home was locked up at an hour's notice and the boy and his mother went to New York, from where they sailed today on La Lorraine.

DEBUTANTES TO SELL SUFFRAGE LABELLED CIGARETTES AT SHOW

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Pretty debutantes will sell cigarettes wrapped in the suffrage colors and labeled "Votes for Women" during the performance of suffragist week, beginning next Monday, at Hammerstein's Victoria Theatre. "I first saw the cigarette at a church fair, and if they could be sold there without demoralizing the church I guess it won't hurt to sell them at a music hall where we are appearing to help the suffrage propaganda," said Mrs. Arthur Townsend, treasurer of the Woman's Political Union.

DEATH ROLL NOW 12 IN OCEAN PARK FIRE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 5.—Twelve persons, including the six children of S. J. Zarde, a wealthy resident, and their maid, have been missing since the fire that Tuesday night destroyed the amusement section of Ocean Park. Soldiers and police guarding the ruins expressed the belief that all have been lost.

Exclusive Girls' School Is Sued by Former Principal

Miss Anna Leach of Boston, formerly principal at Mount Ida School for Girls, Newton, today brought suit for $2,000 in an action of contract against the school. She claims that she was appointed to act as principal of the school at a salary of $2,500, with board and room, for 1911-12.

She alleges that she continued working up to January 8, 1912, when she became seriously ill, caused by the negligence of the school authorities to heat her room during the extremely cold weather. She was ill, according to her bill of complaint, until February 12, 1912, when she notified the school officials of her willingness to return to work. She was told that her services were no longer required. She further says there is pay due her to the amount of $1,747.50.

WALL ST. LOOKS FOR 4 TO 1 WILSON ODDS

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Wall Street believes it can get odds in betting that Wilson should work around to 4 to 1 on Wilson against the field. This is based on the argument that the Vermont result showed that the Republican vote was solid and larger, while the Republican vote was split and smaller. Curb brokers who specialize in election betting said the news from Vermont brought numerous inquiries for odds, in each instance the reply was there was plenty of it to Wilson money, but no offer or Roosevelt money at any odds.

SUFFRAGETTES ARE ATTACKED BY CROWD

WREXHAM, Wales, Sept. 5.—One woman was seriously injured and several others were hurt today when a crowd of suffragettes who had interrupted Chancellor David Lloyd George's speech at the national Eisteddfod were ejected from the hall and attacked by the crowd outside. They were badly maltreated before being rescued.

SPENCER GOES TO DEATH CELL IN AUTOMOBILE

Bertram G. Spencer, the "social highwayman" of Springfield, sentenced to death in the electric chair in the week beginning September 15 for the murder of Miss Martha B. Hackstone, a Springfield school teacher, is to be removed secretly this afternoon from the Hampden County Jail at Springfield to the Charlestown State Prison. He will be brought to Boston by automobile.

Practically all hope for the commutation of Spencer's sentence is gone, although a petition for his life will be presented to the Executive Council at its meeting next Wednesday.

Spencer is calmly preparing to die. He, with the help of his mother, Mrs. Katherine C. Spencer of Lebanon, Ct., have returned so far as possible the articles that he stole which had not already found their way back to their owners.

At his trial an attempt was made to prove that Spencer was insane. Some of the time at the trial he acted like a lunatic, but it was decided that he was sane and since the trial he has acted rationally, according to the jail officials.

Spencer goes to the death cell where he will be specially guarded until he is summoned to pay the penalty for his crime, unless the Governor and council interfere.

The young wife of the condemned man is working as a stenographer to provide for herself and her little son.

The crimes of Spencer, who terrorized Springfield for a year and a half, were of the Jekyl-Hyde order. Spencer worked during the day as a respectable citizen and was a burglar by night.

'How Old Is Ann?' Is Discarded for New Brain Puzzler Here

Here is the successor to "How Old Is Ann?" which arrived in Boston today. The problem is: An article costs $1 wholesale. What will it have to be sold for to allow a profit of 10 per cent. after allowing 22 per cent. for the cost of selling?

The answer is not $1.32, $1.34 or $1.42, the most common of the results reached by those who have attempted to solve the apparently simple problem.

TO BAR PINE RUST AND POTATO WART

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Secretary Wilson has arranged to hold hearings on the white pine blister rust, September 16; on the Mediterranean fruit fly, September 18, and the potato wart, September 20, preliminary to proposed sweeping quarantine proclamations against these agricultural menaces under a new law.

LICENSE FOR HOTEL UPTON IS REFUSED

The Licensing Board today refused the application of J. J. Donovan & Co. for a liquor license for the Hotel Upton on Dartmouth street, which was closed six months ago by the board. The board announced that no license would be granted to the Upton during the present year.

WOOD ACCEPTS JOHNSON DEFI TO TWIRL DUEL

By L. R. MURDOCK.

Joe Wood, premier pitcher of the American League, and the leading shoman of the pennant winning Red Sox, and Walter Johnson, the Washington Senators' star, and the Boston boy's greatest rival, will meet tomorrow in what promises to be the most spectacular baseball battle in the history of the great American game.

The meeting was arranged as a result of a challenge issued by Manager Griffith of the Senators to Jake Stahl, the leader of the Red Sox, in which the "Old Fox" declared the "Big Swede" was the better pitcher, and defied the Boston manager to stack his star against him.

The challenge, which was printed exclusively in the AMERICAN, was quickly accepted by Stahl, who declared he was ready and willing at any time to have the rivals meet.

Ready to Meet Rival Any Time.

If Clark Griffith has challenged me to a pitchers' battle between Johnson and Wood, he said, you can say I take him right up and we are ready to meet him at any time.

Wood is ready to go into a game against Johnson this afternoon, but it's too late to arrange for it today, so we will have it tomorrow.

There is no need of waiting until Saturday. If Griffith and Johnson want a fight we will give it to them and we'll lick them, too, just because they challenged us.

I hoped to see Wood and Johnson meet anyway. Now let them come ahead with Johnson tomorrow afternoon.

Both pitchers have been consulted and both were enthusiastic over the prospects of a meeting.

Threat to Force Meeting.

In his challenge today Griffith declared his intention of forcing Stahl to accept his challenge, the combat to take place during the present remarkable spectacular series between the American League leaders—and pennant-winners-to-be—and the Senators, who, starting from seventh place, have pursued the Sox to the finish and have given the baseball world its surprise of 1912.

Griffith declared that if Stahl dodged the challenge, he would hold Johnson in reserve until Joe Wood appeared in the box and then shove Johnson into the box.

Here is Griffith's challenge, made to a member of the AMERICAN sporting staff today:

On behalf of Walter Johnson, I

CAPT. HAYES IS AGAIN SUSPENDED BY WALDO

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—After reading purported statements by Police Captain Hayes, the deposed inspector, that he would "crucify" Police Commissioner Waldo and force his resignation, if put on trial, Waldo today ordered Inspector Schmittberger to summon Hayes to police headquarters and have him put in writing his alleged charges. Schmittberger was ordered to suspend Hayes again after the writing.

Waldo also gave out a letter under date of April 15, purporting to be an order from him to Hayes to obtain evidence against an alleged gambling house in Forty-fifth street.

Captain Hayes was reduced from inspector to captain because he is accused of saying no inspector could make a raid without direct orders from Waldo.

Hayes has conferred with District Attorney Whitman. In the police official it is thought the prosecutor has one of the strongest witnesses yet obtained. Hayes feels he has been deserted by the "system." He says he is going to be made the "goat" by the police department, but proposes to fight. He told Whitman a great many things and promised more if Whitman would delay indicting him for a few days.

The former inspector felt reasonably certain he was to be the man who would be named in a special Jury true bill when the inquiry is done, and put it squarely up to Whitman. Hayes offered all the aid he could give if the prosecutor would keep back the evidence against him, so his case might not be hurt.

Waldo will have to tell all he knows of the graft situation in New York's police department to the Aldermanic graft investigating committee. The commissioner was served with a subpoena by Charles S. Guthrie, associate counsel for the committee. Waldo will testify September 16, a week after the appearance of Mayor Gaynor.

Keeps Up Becker Fight.

The battle for time by Attorney McIntyre, attorney for Lieutenant Charles A. Becker, continues. McIntyre declares he has been given insufficient time.

Since the spiriting away to England of Thomas Coupe, a witness to the Rosenthal murder, Louis Kreise, another witness, has reported he has been threatened with harm by the "system."

District Attorney Whitman appointed a detective to guard Kreise night and day.

A message from Coupe, former night clerk of the Elks' Club in New York, says he is ready to help District Attorney Whitman in every way possible, but will not return to the United States.

Alderman Percy L. Davis of No. 71 West One Hundred and Twenty-eighth street, is locked up on a charge of extortion, as is Rhea J. Owen, a clerk engaged in evangelistic work. The men were arrested on the complaint of Mrs. Eva B. Carroll in Mrs. Carroll's apartment. Deputy Commissioner Dougherty says the arrest took place just after Mrs. Carroll had handed the alderman a check for $5,000 and $15 in marked bills, to prevent the publication of an affidavit attacking both Mrs. Carroll and her daughter, Mrs. Engel.

Hayes Is Confident.

Captain Hayes is confident he can clear himself, and in doing so put the blame for the alliance between the police and the underworld directly up to Mayor Gaynor and Commissioner Waldo. Hayes does not charge that either the Mayor or Commissioner are dishonest. What he maintains is that the Mayor's demand for "outward order and decency," left the city apparently quiet enough, but really wide open. This led, it is insisted, to conditions ideal for the collection of graft from all sorts of illegal enterprises, and the attitude of Commissioner Waldo, in carrying out the Mayor's ideas, led to the state of affairs exposed when Herman Rosenthal was shot outside the Metropole.

The former inspector is eager to face his accusers. He says Gaynor and Waldo fear what he will tell. He asked Whitman's aid in getting his trial hurried. He feared it would be put off from time to time, and he never would get the chance to clear himself. Hayes is bitter against the police department's high officials. He has his back against the wall, he declares, prepared to make a desperate fight for his reputation.

No policeman hopes to prove he was ordered by Commissioner Waldo to make no raids, by the testimony of Deputy Commissioner McKay. McKay, Hayes insists, had him before Waldo after the inspector had attempted to obey the deputy's orders to raid certain resorts. Then and there, Hayes declares, Waldo explained to McKay that Hayes' instructions were to make no raids without orders from the Commissioner himself.

Hayes a Bitter Man.

Hayes did not approach Whitman a cringing, frightened wretch, terrified by his knowledge of his own misdeeds, fearful that the knowledge was not confined to himself and seeking with ready gratitude the immunity he hoped would be bought with by disclosures to the District Attorney.

It was a bitter man, a man set on vengeance, one who realized, or thought he did, that he had been abandoned by all those he had learned to call friends. It was this kind of man who greeted the District Attorney. Hayes' manner was said by his mien was dominant; if he had aught to fear for himself he did not show it. His one regret was that he might be prevented from facing his accuser in a police trial until after his own reputation had been sullied by the flashing against him of an indictment.

It was for this that he sought Mr. Whitman; to receive the assurance, if it could be obtained, that no matter what was in store for him it should be delayed until after his trial. That along was Hayes' request, there was no plea for special consideration or for mercy.

PRODUCE MEN UP ON SHORT WEIGHT CHARGE

How much should a barrel of sweet potatoes weigh? H. L. Mudget, W. W. Benjamin, Gunning, Gunning, Andrew Hayden, Charles Lawrence, Taylor Bros., the proprietors of the Boston Produce Company, and the Clinton Fruit Company, all produce merchants in the market district, were arraigned before Judge Murray in the Municipal Court today on the charge of selling barrels of sweet potatoes short in weight. The officials of the City Sealer's Department were the complainants. D. J. Kiley defended the merchants and stated that the barrels were all stamped with the weight of the contents. The sealers replied that they should weigh 150 pounds in the barrel, stamp or no stamp. The court took the matter under advisement.

"CLEAN OUT SLUM AREAS IN BOSTON," SAYS KEIR HARDIE

"The streets of the West End should be made more like Commonwealth Avenue," said J. Keir Hardie, English labor leader and Socialist, as he left Boston after four days' stay. "Clean out the slum areas. Tear down the rickety, old dwelling houses and build roomy, airy houses for the working man and his family. Rents charged the working class in Boston are too high in proportion to the accommodations afforded.

"Your traffic squad officers are very capable men. The street traffic of this city is well regulated, and much credit can be given the police on this point. In my long walks about the city I have found these policemen very courteous and obliging, and for that reason I could trust myself in any part of district without fear of losing my way."

HAMMOND SEES T. R. IN COAT OF BRYAN AND DEBS' TROUSERS

GLOUCESTER, Sept. 5.—John Hays Hammond, in an appeal to the people of Massachusetts which he has just made public to the Republican City Committee here, sees in the "newer Roosevelt" merely a copy of Bryan and Debs.

"Theodore Roosevelt, masquerading in the purloined coat of William Jennings Bryan and the trousers of Debs," he said, "presents a grotesque figure."

The most brilliant brilliant with allusions to Colonel Roosevelt who, "because of his overweening ambition and lust for power, has proved himself to be a friend, to party and to country." His only ambition, Mr. Hammond maintains, is the destruction of the Republican party.

Mr. Hammond issues the appeal as President of the League of Republican Clubs, organized four years ago to help elect President Taft.

PATROLMAN WHO NURSED SICK WIFE GETS CASE FILED

Police Commissioner O'Meara has placed on file the case of Patrolman Walter C. Howard of Station 5, who was found guilty by a trial board of reporting at roll call in an intoxicated condition. The extenuating circumstances are that the patrolman took two grains containing quinine within suffering from malaria and loss of sleep. His wife having been ill, he had been long without sleep, working nights on duty and attending his wife days.

Commissioner O'Meara says in a general order: "The offence of which Patrolman Howard has been found guilty is one which is rarely passed upon without the severest punishment, but in consideration of his good record and the peculiar circumstances of the case the recommendation of the trial board will be followed."

2D MRS. CONVERSE IS TAKEN BY DEATH

GREENWICH, Ct., Sept. 5.—Mrs. James B. Converse died at her home on the Converse Manor estate of Edmund C. Converse, the New York millionaire at 4 a. m. today, exactly two days later than the death of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Edmund C. Converse, in a residence adjoining on the same estate. Although she had been a partial invalid for some years, she was not critically ill until the death of her sister-in-law.

"Women in Society Bad Insurance Risks: They Live Too High"

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Women in high society are bad insurance risks. All other women, especially business women, are considered good risks. That is the dictum of the American Life Insurance convention in session here.

"Women who live so-called high life have a hard time getting insurance," said President Gold. "They live altogether too high. They eat such indigestible food and drink so many harmful beverages that their systems soon are wrecked and they go the quick route to the grave.

"Milk Fed Elephant, Lion's Whelp and the Mighty Wind"

ADA, O., Sept. 5.—Aaron S. Watkins was today notified of his nomination for the Vice-Presidency by the Prohibition National Convention. The notification speech was made by Clinton N. Howard of Rochester, who said:

Taft is a milk-fed elephant with a broken tusk and a Rubber Trust trunk; Wilson is a lion's whelp, clean of tooth and claw, led by an aged Roosevelt is a "great and mighty wind," which raises the dust and creates political astigmatism among the people.

MORSE'S SECOND DAY BACK IN "STREET"

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Charles W. Morse, his health recovered since his parodo from the federal prison at Atlanta, spent his second day in Wall street today, after an absence of five years, to fight for rehabilitation in the world of finance.

To accomplish what he has spoken of as his "life work," the man who has experienced the sensations that follow a drop from a financier to a felon has opened offices and is now hard at work in No. 61 Exchange place, his bullwick in his heyday. Those in Morse's confidence say sentimental reasons prompted this step.

The Morse Securities Company is believed represents the "odds and ends" of his investments in his days of wealth.

OFFICERS HIDE NEGRO SOUGHT BY LYNCHERS

BLUEFIELDS, W. Va., Sept. 5.—Walter Johnson, a negro accused of attacking white girl in this city and who was reported early today to have been lynched at Princeton, whither he was hurried by the sheriff last night to escape a mob, is in hiding in the hills fifteen miles from here. He was taken to the hills by officers when the jail at Princeton was stormed.

A Valuable Formula
(Cut out and keep.)
Refreshing Drink For Fever Patients.
To half a glass of any good syrup left from canned fruit—raspberry or grape juice is especially good—add a tablespoonful of Duffy's pure malt whiskey and a few lumps of ice. Fill up the glass with plain cold water. This may be made more nourishing by adding the yolk or white of a fresh egg and shaking the whole well.
This drink is very highly recommended by Dr. Thomas Love of Atlanta, Ga., who says: "It is unequalled for fever patients."

POLICE HUNT FALSE KEY-WORKERS FOR THEFTS IN MALDEN

Several houses in Malden have been entered by false key workers the past few nights, and the police of that city are doubling their efforts to apprehend the robbers.

At W. W. Hall's grocery store at No. 155 Beach street, a wallet filled with valuable papers was taken from a money drawer. The home of Wallace F. Dilfontaine, No. 37 Clement street, was entered during the absence of the family. A canary bird and a gold watch were taken.

Jacob Vanprang of No. 60 Harvard street; Jacob Miller of No. 78 Mills street, and Mrs. Ida Goldberg of No. 17 Henry street, say their places were entered and that their clothes and money were stolen.

Gorgeous Costumes Seen at Final Day of Newport Horse Show

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 5.—The closing day of the Newport Horse Show—Children's Day—assembled a full quota of the cottagers and many townspeople, who saw one of the best open air exhibits in Newport's history. Next year the show will be given September 3, 2 and 5, these dates having been decided upon early, as a result of this season's success.

The costumes were gorgeous, the most stunning being worn by Mrs. James J. Brown of Denver and Mrs. John R. Drexel.

HUNT TWO MISSING ROCKLAND GIRLS

The parents of two Rockland girls, Lea Premier, fifteen years old, and Angeline Zelard, seventeen, have asked the police of that town to help them find the girls, who have been missing since August 26. They were traced as far as Providence.

Filene's
The New Filene Store
Have You Heard of The Streets of Filene's?
STREETS within a store? Yes. Real streets—lined with attractively-trimmed shop windows. Bounded and separated by these streets are the specialty shops in which the merchandise itself is shown and sold.
Each shop represents the last word in its zone. Each has its shop windows reflecting the world's fashions as it gleans them.
Main street skirts the grand sweep of elevators along the northern wall. Centre street parallels Main, full length from Hawley to Washington, bisecting the floor; and Cross street goes from north to south connecting the other two avenues of fashion.
Every floor has its mission—one floor speaks the final word of apparel for misses and girls; two others cover the broad field of women's outer garments; a third, the more intimate domain of lingerie and dainty baby's things; and still another has apparel for men and boys; others provide shoes for all members of the household.
On each Filene floor above the main floor are these broad, inviting streets—throughfares that we hope will soon mean to Boston people what the Rue de la Paix or the Place Vendome means to la Parisienne or the Arcades of London town to the Englishman.
THE NEW FILENE'S
Editorial from Boston Transcript. Sept. 3, 1912.
It is always matter of congratulation when the commercial facilities of the city are increased by the addition of a structure—dignified and beautiful without, and, within, observing every available ideal of comfort and convenience—like that occupied today by William Filene's Sons Company. Wisely has this company sought work while from the view point of the city-builder, since it establishes an architectural standard to which the surroundings must ultimately conform. That, however, desirable though it seems, is of lesser importance than the fact that the great new shop is a logical development. Filene's may be welcomed by their competitors because, while in part they will be competitors, to a considerable extent by the ingenuity of their methods they have actually created a new field. This, of course, cannot remain indefinitely merely their own, but their competitors in turn will compete against them. These original constructions warrant special approval. There are few mercantile establishments that have carried co-operation to such helpful lengths or made employees such enthusiastic factors in the firm's prosperity. There is, again, no department store, which has so extended the functions of the department store, widening the sphere of personal service to include many attentions for which one has heretofore had to look to his hotel or his club. The innovation will appeal particularly to that great public which lives at a distance, but does its shopping in Boston. Local patrons are already on the way to become acquainted with refinements of service which are appreciated none the less because they have been in some measure expected. Satisfaction will deepen as public acquaintance with the great shop becomes more intimate and as the sales force learns the infinite possibilities of its new home.
Second Day of the New Store
ALMOST as great as the first numerically. Greater in the matter of public enjoyment because of less congestion and increased efficiency on our part.
Hundreds of our visitors yesterday exclaimed: "Why, we feel right at home here, and we expected it would all be so strange."
They were quick to realize that though the merchandise looked so much better much of it is the same kind that the old store contained. Though there is better merchandise, too, the chief difference is that it is now displayed much better. And the service is vastly improved.
Speaking of the first day's attendance—235,000—it represents more than one-third the population of Boston, more than that of Providence, R. I., more than that of Rochester, N. Y., twice that of Lowell, twice that of Bridgeport, Conn., twice that of Albany, N. Y., three times that of Manchester, N. H., four times that of Portland, Me., and twelve times that of Burlington, Vt.
So you see we had a city or two assembled beneath our roof last Tuesday!

Scotti's Betrothal Makes Farrar Ill

Mother Nurses Singer in Sanitarium

GERALDINE FARRAR, FAMOUS MELROSE SINGER.

Engagement of American Girl and Italian Baritone Rumored Ever Since Pair Met in Europe When She Won Triumph, Inquiries Always Laughed Away by Miss Farrar, but Collapse Shows Effect on Her of Announcement That Charlotte Ives Will Wed Scotti.

She Suffers Relapse at Munich On Learning of Baritone's Troth to Miss Ivas.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Geraldine Farrar, the American prima donna, who was born in Melrose, Mass., is seriously ill in a sanitarium in Munich. According to reports received here and in Paris Miss Farrar is suffering from a nervous breakdown, the result of grief over the announcement of the engagement of Charlotte Ives, an American actress, to Antonio Scotti, the grand opera baritone, whose name has been linked with that of Miss Farrar's in engagement and marriage rumors for half a dozen years.

It is said that Miss Farrar has been in the sanatarium for several weeks and that she has cancelled all engagements for the coming season, including a concert tour in the United States in October and November.

Mrs. Sidney Farrar, her mother, is said to be with her, consoling and nursing her back to health.

Although Miss Farrar was in poor health when she arrived in Munich a short time ago, she was improving steadily, but the announcement of the forthcoming marriage of Signor Scotti and Miss Ives was a shock that has caused her, it is reported, to lose all ground gained on the road to recovery. The latest development is a new turn in the romance, now shattered, which the friends of the popular actress and the American songbird had nurtured for so long, confident in their predictions of a happy culmination.

Ever since 1906, when Geraldine Farrar returned to her home in the United States crowned with European laurels, she has been followed in her increasingly successful career by inquiries regarding a repaired engagement of herself and Signor Scotti, with whom she had sung in the Berlin Opera House.

Many were the anecdotes related of the marked devotion to her of the great Italian singer. It was evidently an ardent wooing. Equally evident was the deterioration of the young American singer on the threshold of her success and later when flushed with the victory for which she had striven, not to be won.

While Signor Scotti on many occasions by words and actions supplied ground for confidence on the part of the prophets that soon a formal announcement would be made, Miss Farrar invariably met inquiries and never indicated that her heart, had been reached by the reported suitor.

SEES HOPE OF CHEMICAL LIFE

DUNDEE, Scotland, Sept. 5.—The most interesting feature of the opening session of the British Association for the Advancement of Science was the presidential address of Professor E. A. Schaefer of Edinburgh University, which dealt with the nature, origin and maintenance of life.

During the course of his address, he said:

We may fairly conclude that all change in living substances are brought about by ordinary chemical and physical forces.

Speaking of the properties of growth and reproduction, he declared:

They are possessed not alone by living bodies, for inorganic crystals grow and multiply and reproduce their like, given a supply of the requisite substance.

NEW CITY BUILDING ASKED BY WARD 17

At a mass meeting held at the Vine Street Church, the following resolution addressed to the Boston City Council was adopted:

"Whereas, the present municipal building in Ward 17, Roxbury, occupying as it does a valuable site, and serving no other purpose than that of public meetings, is entirely inadequate to the growing need of the ward, therefore

"Be it resolved that public necessity requires and the need of the public demands that a suitable loan be passed by the City Council for a modern municipal building, equipped with gymnasia, shower baths, library and public forum, and that the same be done this year."

Congressman James M. Curley presided and the passage of the resolution was upon motion of Representative William F. O'Brien.

Pe-ru-na and Ka-tar-no

S. B. Hartman, M. D.

I have received a letter from a young lady, who asks me: "Is the old Pe-ru-na (Ka-tar-no) better than the revised Pe-ru-na?"

Either medicine has its place. One is adapted for one condition, another for another. Ka-tar-no is a better remedy for some conditions than the revised Pe-ru-na. On the other hand, the revised Pe-ru-na is a better remedy for some conditions than Ka-tar-no. They are both intended as catarrh remedies. They have both done a great work in relieving catarrh, chronic and acute. Many hundreds of cases of chronic catarrh have recovered while taking Ka-tar-no and the same is true of the revised Pe-ru-na during the last six years since its revision.

There is a difference, however, in the two remedies. Whenever catarrh is associated with constipation then the revised Pe-ru-na is the best. Indeed, this is exactly why the revision was made, to meet such cases. But where no laxative is needed, where the bowels are regular or inclined to be loose, then the old Pe-ru-na (Ka-tar-no) is the better remedy.

The revised Pe-ru-na is for sale at all drug stores. Those wishing to obtain Ka-tar-no, address The Ka-tar-no Co., Columbus, Ohio.

CUPID BUSY IN CHARITY FIELD

Behind the wedding of Miss Irene McAlpine of Boston and George Gustave Young, Mayor of Cumberland, Md., which takes place at the Plaza Hotel in New York at 4 o'clock next Monday afternoon, is a pretty little romance.

Graduating from Wellesley six years ago Miss McAlpine decided to devote her efforts along charitable lines. She finally went to Cumberland as the representative of the Associated Charities. It was in connection with that work that she met the handsome young Mayor of Cumberland.

Young was a bachelor and it looked as though he were doomed to remain in that unhappy condition. When he saw Miss McAlpine, however, he began to dream of things beyond business and politics. His friends noticed that he began to manifest a deep interest in charity.

Whenever there was a charitable act to be done, the good people of Cumberland got into the habit of saying:

"Let George do it."

And George did it. But all the time George had his eye on the charming Boston girl who directed the charitable organization of the city of which he was the official head.

Finally, his friends declared, that he went to Miss McAlpine and the following conversation took place:

"Do you know, Miss McAlpine, the most charitable thing that you could do in this city?"

"Why, no, Mr. Mayor, what is it—I think I should like to do it."

"Marry me," said the audacious Mayor.

Miss McAlpine thought it over. Finally she consented. Her mother, Mrs. Charles A. McAlpine will accompany her daughter to New York from here for the ceremony, which will be performed by the bride's brother, Rev. Charles A. McAlpine, of Rochester, N. Y.

WOMEN TO STUMP STATE FOR COLONEL

A small but determined army of Massachusetts women have taken up the fight in behalf of Colonel Roosevelt and his Bull Moosers and are planning to wage active warfare. They are ready to carry on the campaign with teas, dances, dinner parties, or to take the stump. They are going to form a State committee room. Many of them are society women. Among the organizers are Mrs. Richard Washburn Child and Mrs. Maude Howe Elliott, daughter of the late Julia Ward Howe.

"FLIER" IN HOPS; CHARGES FRAUD

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—A flier in hops by Louis C. Mouquin, the restaurant man, resulted in an application by Mouquin yesterday to Justice Delany for an injunction restraining Jonas Lippmann, a hop broker, from disposing of two promissory notes for $500 each on the ground that Lippmann got them by fraud. Mouquin said Lippmann represented that 35 cents was the lowest price of the market, but he learned later that he could have bought the hops for 27 cents. The injunction was refused.

FOSS IS 'FOUND' WITH MORPHEUS

Governor Foss awakened from refreshing sleep at 8 o'clock today in the Hotel Bellevue and learned with some amusement that he was supposed by several people to be "Lost, Strayed or Stolen" up to midnight last night.

The Governor promised to go to New London today to attend the Deeper Waterways convention. It was taken for granted, apparently, that he would go down on the real estate men's special train which left at midnight.

But the Governor had also promised to spend a few hours with the Luther Club at Lowell. He was morally bound not to disappoint the Luther Club this year because he had to break a similar engagement with them last year. So he arranged to sleep at the Bellevue last night, take the 10 a. m. train today to Lowell and leave that city this afternoon for New London, thus keeping both appointments.

But the real estate men, boarding their own special at the South Station at midnight, asked for the Governor.

"Where's the Governor?" asked Mayor Fitzgerald.

"Oh, he's coming," said "Charley" Judkins, treasurer of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange. "Probably he'll get aboard at the Back Bay."

Back Bay and no Governor. The train journeyed on, and the waterways delegates thought: "Governor missed the train. Too bad."

About this time His Excellency was "pounding his ear," as they say, on the Bellevue pillows.

BOSTON MAN HEAD OF ELECTROTYPERS

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—The International Association of Electrotypers, in convention today, decided on a policy of arbitration of labor troubles through national committees. It elected these officers: William F. Scott, Boston, president; F. H. Clark, Cleveland, vice-president; Paul J. Wilhelm, Buffalo, secretary; Charles Partridge, Chicago, treasurer.

"SORE WITH WORLD;" GIVEN FIVE MONTHS

BROCKTON, Sept. 5.—Thomas F. Murphy of No. 8 Grove street, told Judge Lane he hadn't worked for seven years and that he was "sore with the world." Mrs. Murphy said her husband had given her $1,000 twenty-three years ago, and nothing since. Murphy got five months in which to restore his good nature.

UNION CAMPAIGN IN MORE HOTELS

Following victory at the Hotel Lenox, Organizer Edward Blechlinger of the International Hotel Workers' Union today pressed forward the work of organization in more hotels and the presenting of the union demands. He explained that as one hotel was facing a strike or making concessions, another was being organized.

"We will go from one hotel to another," Blechlinger declared, "and there will be strikes in every establishment where the managers refuse to meet or treat with the union. If the hotel men decide upon uniting to resist this movement we are prepared to call an immediate general strike that will include cooks, bellboys, chambermaids and employes in every branch of the hotel industry.

"Despite the assertion made by one hotel manager, there is no room in this city that we have not members and agitators in. There isn't one of the first-class hotels in Boston that, we could not cripple at a few minutes notice."

Mr. Blechlinger and the union's attorney demanded a conference early today with Edgar Pierce, president of the Walpole Hotel Company.

MRS. LIVERMORE HAS JORDAN PLEA READY

Mrs. Nellie Livermore, wife of Jesse Livermore, the wealthy cotton operator and brother of Chester Jordan, the condemned wife slayer, is all ready to leave New York at a moment's notice and come to Boston to plead before Governor Foss to spare the life of her brother, who is under sentence to die in the electric chair the week beginning September 22.

MOTHER-IN-LAW OF SHERMAN WINS

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 5.—Mrs. Ellen Babcock of Utica, N. Y., mother-in-law of Vice-President Sherman, will receive $500,000 of the Mary S. Dickerson estate, settled after two years' litigation.

MISS MORGAN DENIES BETROTHAL TO BONI

PARIS, Sept. 5.—Correspondents today received the following note from an intimate woman friend of Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of J. Pierpont Morgan: "There is not a vestige of truth in any report concerning an engagement between Count Boni de Castellane and Miss Anne Morgan. Miss Morgan asks me to deny this story officially and flatly."

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

SHERIFF MAY SELL SICKLES' BELONGINGS

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—There is danger that the furniture, bric-a-brac and personal effects of General Daniel E. Sickles may come under the hammer of Sheriff Julius Harburger. And, although General Sickles was sheriff of New York county himself twenty years ago, Sheriff Harburger is so devoted to his ungracious duty that he will send counsel before Supreme Court Justice Newburger to argue against any delay of the sale.

STOMACH MISERY JUST VANISHES

Time It! No Indigestion, Gas or Sourness Five Minutes After Taking "Pape's Diapepsin."

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only fifty cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases, then you will understand why dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for indigestion or gastritis or any other stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion.

PROBE WOMAN'S DEATH IN LAKE

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Sensational disclosures were made today in an investigation which has started at the instance of the Austrian Government into the death of Mrs. Rosa Menschik Szabo in Greenwood Lake, N. Y., on July 16 last. Pinkerton men have been employed by the Austrian consul-general here to aid the Orange County authorities and a petition has been filed by Dr. Fritz Fischeraner, the Austrian vice-consul, with Surrogate Fowler asking for the removal of Burton W. Gibson, a lawyer, as executor of the estate of Mrs. Szabo and his own designation to that post.

Gibson, the lawyer, was with Mrs. Szabo when she was drowned by the overturning of their boat in the lake. In the petition filed in the surrogate's court Dr. Fischeraner advances these startling reasons for the removal of Gibson:

That whereas the will of Mrs. Szabo made a short time before her death made her mother sole heir to her estate of $10,000, the mother is found in a cable dispatch from Vienna to have died two years before the will was made.

That a woman purporting to be Mrs. Szabo's mother and residing in Chicago was produced by Gibson, and she thereupon made an affidavit that she was the person designated as her in the will. That Gibson represented there were no other heirs to the estate of Mrs. Szabo, whereas cable advices from Vienna say Mrs. Szabo left five brothers and three sisters.

EDDIE FOY TO SING IN COURT TO PROVE TO JUDGE HE CAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Magistrate Breen in the Jefferson Market Court held Eddie Foy, the comedian, in $100 bail for hearing in the Court of Special Sessions on charges made by Thomas B. Watson of the Gerry Society.

Seven sons and daughters of Foy—from four to sixteen years old—appeared in court, and, smiles giving way to sedateness, watched the proceedings. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children had previously given Foy's manager a permit, allowing the youngsters to appear on the stage. It merely allowed one appearance.

Foy waived examination, however, notwithstanding that Magistrate Breen stated he had seen the act and could find nothing objectionable in it.

The children sang certain verses, so the Gerry Society representative said, but Foy stated it, and he would go through with that part of the performance in the special sessions when the case came up. He wants to prove he can "sing."

EDISON WORKS 122 HOURS OUT OF 144

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 5.—Despite his advancing years, Thomas A. Edison was so busy last week that he found time for less than 22 hours' sleep in the course of the six work days. By his own accounting he devoted 122 hours of the 144 to hard work. The night's energy was inspired by the need of finishing touches on his new storage battery, a day he was ready to say that the invention was about perfected, and he hopes he will be able to put it on the market next month.

POSTAL CLERKS MEET IN UPROAR

The convention of the United National Association of Postoffice Clerks broke up early today for a short respite before reconvening again in Faneuil Hall when officials will be elected. The results will be announced tonight at a banquet in the East Armory on Newton street.

The night session was almost a stampede and proved too much for John A. McMahon of Boston, who had been nominated for national treasurer. Placed on the shoulders of his admirers, he was so buffeted about that when he reached the platform he fell nearly unconscious and required the services of a physician for half an hour before he recovered.

For all of the other principal offices except that of treasurer names were put up with somewhat less noisy demonstrations. Edward Byer and John Diamond were nominated for first vice-president, Thomas F. O'Brien of Lewiston for second vice-president, Thomas Murphy of Wilcoxsburg for third vice-president and William F. Gibbons of Scranton for secretary.

DORCHESTER GIRL CAMPAIGNING FOR DENNIS COHOLAN

MARY COHOLAN

Although not a suffragist, no one is taking a keener interest in the result of the primary election on September 24 than Miss Mary Coholan of No. 75 Bowdoin avenue, Dorchester.

For the past three weeks she has been circulating cards and literature telling why her father, Dennis Coholan, one of Ward 20's veteran politicians, should be elected to the House of Representatives. Before the primary she expects to make a number of speeches at neighborhood rallies to be held in behalf of her father.

"The political game is new to me, but the little I have seen of it has convinced me why men find it so fascinating," said Miss Coholan. "My girl chums are working with me, distributing cards and literature, and we really find it great fun rather than hard work.

"Everywhere we go we are well received and the men listen respectfully to our arguments. I think my father is going to win, because it is the first time he has sought any office and he is well known throughout the ward."

BOSTON RIVAL OF NEW YORK

NEW LONDON, Ct., Sept. 5.—General Hugh Bancroft, chairman of the directors of the port of Boston, told the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Convention at the Hotel Griswold today that the entry of the Grand Trunk to Boston is the port's "greatest prospective chance for increased export tonnage"; that Boston needs direct sailings to ports with which it now has sailing connections; that Boston's real ambition is to increase its foreign trade and that "the development of a great world port at Boston means the continuance of the industrial supremacy of New England."

At the close of his address General Bancroft hinted that Boston may rival New York, saying:

"The two chief ports of Continental Europe, Hamburg and Antwerp, are as near together as Boston and New York. If Antwerp, with only little Belgium behind it, can dispute the primacy of Hamburg, supported by all the resources of the German empire, perhaps history will repeat itself on this side of the Atlantic."

General Bancroft said:

"Boston is the nearest to Europe of all the great north Atlantic ports. Its advantage over New York is 200 miles. A ship of moderate speed carrying cargo as well as passengers can make the passage from Boston in the same time that an express steamer requires from New York. It is Boston's ambition to make its foreign commerce more nearly approach the enormous volume of its domestic commerce.

"Boston has a real ambition to increase its foreign trade. As Boston is proposing to provide terminal facilities to handle any ship afloat, Boston is entitled to a channel that will float such ships at any stage of the tide, and for this purpose even our new thirty-five-foot channel is not adequate. At the instance of the port directors a clause is included in the last rivers and harbors bill authorizing the preliminary survey looking toward a still deeper channel."

The committee on time and place by a vote of 9 to 4decided to recommend at tonight's session that the convention in 1913 be held in Jacksonville, Fla., and that Troy, N. Y., be awarded the convention in 1914.

BURGLAR "DOC" SNOW CAUGHT BY WOMAN DETECTIVE

Charles Garlock, alias "Doc," or Fred E. Snow, reputed head of the Snow burglar gang, who escaped from the Maine State prison at Thomaston, is under arrest today through the clever work of a Boston woman detective.

He was arrested at La Patrie, Que., and taken back to Thomaston.

Snow or Garlock was serving a three-and-a-half-year term for attempting to murder Sheriff Charles O. Emery of York, Me., and for breaking and entering. The woman detective gained the confidence of Snow's mother and sister in Leominster, and through intercepted letters found out where he was.

STOMACH TROUBLES ENDED
NO MORE SICK HEADACHES

Do you feel bright and cheerful—as you should—when you get up in the morning, do you feel like you have had a good night's rest and like doing a full day's work; or, do you get up with that "down and out" spirit and feel just as tired and sleepy as when you went to bed?

If you have that "tired-all-the-time" feeling go to your druggist—right this minute—get a bottle of Cooper's New Discovery. Take three doses—one before each meal—and if you don't feel better than you have for many a day return the bottle to the druggist and get your money refunded.

After taking a few doses of this medicine there will be no dyspepsia and you will not feel the effects of undigested food in the stomach which causes heartburn, sick headache, or dizziness, and your food will not ferment and cause a bad odor to your breath. The bad taste in your mouth will disappear and you will be so much improved that your condition will surprise you.

Cooper's New Discovery will take the gas from your stomach, cleanse the intestines, and, besides, will prepare the food for assimilation into the blood, the same as a sound, healthy stomach should do.

You will notice a big improvement in your condition as soon as you begin taking this medicine. Don't put it off. Remember, if you do not feel better after three doses, go back and get your money. After using a full bottle of Cooper's New Discovery you will hardly know yourself. For sale at all druggists'.

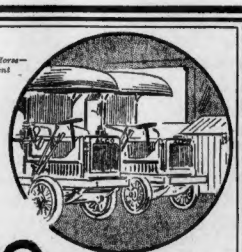
Horses eat their heads off on Sundays

Motor Truck vs. Horse—Alco Argument No. 4.



Motor trucks are almost of no expense on Sunday

ALCO
Motor Trucks

Sunday in the Stable

Horses eat on Sunday as well as on any other day. And yet nearly all of them are idle on that day. One day out of every seven. The cost of maintaining the stable or cost of feeding the horse is as great on Sunday as on any other day.

But with Alco trucks there is almost no expense on Sunday. Being idle they do not consume gasolene or lubricating oil. They do not grow old. They require no attention whatsoever.

Thus Alco trucks net a big saving over horses on Sunday—even when idle. They net an even greater saving when at work. For an Alco truck is nothing more nor less than a labor, time, and money-saving machine. It serves its best use when put to work and kept at work all day long.

A horse cannot work all day.

Alco trucks should interest every man who owns a horse. Many business men are still old-fashioned enough to employ horses for delivery of goods—but no business man should be so old-fashioned as to refuse to look into the possibilities of the Alco truck.

By 'phoning Back Bay 5460 an Alco truck will be brought to your door. Or a letter will bring a 64-page book about the Alco to your office.

Alco Trucks are built by the American Locomotive Company

FLETCHER HOLDS VT. LEGISLATURE

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Vt., Sept. 5.—Republican leaders today declared that their previous estimates of a Republican majority of sixty-three on the joint ballot in the Legislature made necessary by their failure to secure a majority at the State election for Fletcher for Governor will not be changed by additional returns.

It will be several days before the exact makeup of the Legislature will be known as a number of the small towns, where there was no election for member of the Legislature Tuesday, were still balloting early today through the inability of the voters to agree on a candidate.

On the basis of the Vermont vote—R. O. P. losses and Democratic gains—throughout the country, Taft would not carry a single State, and Wilson would sweep the Nation.

In Montpelier the situation is so tangled the Representative fight has been put over for ten days.

The lineup of the Legislature will be practically as follows:

SENATE.

Republicans	28
Fusion	2

HOUSE.

Republicans	176
Democrats	46
Progressives	24
Republican majority on joint ballot	63

The total vote of the State for all five candidates was as follows:

Allen M. Fletcher of Cavendish (Rep.)	36,359
Barland B. Howe of St. Johnsbury (Dem.)	20,350
Rev. Fraser Metzger of Randolph (Prog.)	15,900
Clement L. Smith of Morrisville (Proh.)	1,443
Fred W. Sultor of Barre (Soc.)	1,181

The total vote of the State for Governor reached 65,033, the largest in a State election in a Presidential year since 1904.

DON'T SCOLD AN IRRITABLE CHILD

If Tongue Is Coated, Stomach Sour, Breath Feverish, Give "Syrup of Figs" to Clean the Bowels.

Your child isn't naturally cross, irritable and peevish, Mother! Examine the tongue; if coated, it means the little one's stomach is disordered, liver inactive and the thirty feet of bowels clogged with foul, decaying waste.

Every mother realizes after giving delicious "Syrup of Figs" that this is the ideal laxative and physic for children. Nothing else regulates the little one's tender stomach, liver and bowels so effectually, besides they dearly love its delightful fig taste.

For constipated bowels, sluggish liver, biliousness, or sour, disordered stomach, feverishness, diarrhoea, sore throat, bad breath or to break a cold, give one-half to a teaspoonful of "Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged up waste, sour bile, undigested food and constipated matter will gently move on and out of the system without griping or nausea, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful.

Full direction for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

BOWELS SLUGGISH, STOMACH SOUR, GASSY, UPSET? CASCARETS GREAT

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means your stomach is full of sour bile—your liver is torpid—your bowels constipated. It isn't your stomach's fault—it isn't indigestion—it's biliousness and constipation.

Try Cascarets; they immediately sweeten the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret tonight straightens you out by morning.

10 Cents. Never gripe or sicken.

"CASCARETS WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP."

531 ELECTORS, WILSON CLAIM

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Leaders of the Democratic and the Progressive parties are enthusiastic over the result of the Vermont election. Senator O'Gorman is the most enthusiastic, and predicts that if the same conditions prevail in each State in the country November 5, every one of the 531 votes in the Electoral College will be for Wilson and Marshall.

George W. Perkins said: "Vermont shows that the fight is between Colonel Roosevelt and Governor Wilson. The result in Vermont is a great triumph for the new party.

"In a rock-ribbed State election a party not yet officially four weeks old in a campaign of between two and three weeks, fighting against two parties, each of which is more than half a century old, polled approximately 20 per cent, as many votes as one party and 65 per cent. as many votes as the other party."

If Country Follows Vermont.

If the whole country votes in November as Vermont voted on Tuesday the result in round numbers would be as follows, so far as regards Taft and Wilson:

State.	Taft.	Wilson.
Alabama	10,000	128,000
Arkansas	122,000	100,000
California	71,000	156,000
Connecticut	65,000	85,000
Delaware	14,000	38,000
Florida	6,000	20,000
Georgia	24,000	90,000
Idaho	30,000	45,000
Illinois	261,000	350,000
Indiana	199,000	238,000
Iowa	183,000	221,000

The Three Total Votes.

At the Presidential election in 1908 the Republicans polled 7,678,908 votes in the nation and the Democrats 6,409,104.

Assuming that, as in Vermont, one-tenth of the Republicans will vote for Wilson, six-tenths for Taft and three-tenths for Roosevelt, we have this forecast of the result in November, making no allowance for Democratic unity and enthusiasm or for a large increase in the number of voters:

WILSON	7,176,994
TAFT	4,097,240
ROOSEVELT	2,303,870

Of course, the Vermont result is still the one big topic of discussion. Much of it has grown an expression of belief among certain Republicans that before another month comes and gets both President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt may retire from the Presidential race and give way to a man both factions of the Republican party can agree upon.

This was the conviction of some experienced politicians in view of the Vermont result. All agreed that the Vermont election, unless there be a radical change in the line-up, means a walkover for Wilson.

Senator Crane Named.

It was even asserted that preliminary steps looking to some compromise had been taken, and Senator Murray Crane of Massachusetts, was named as the Taft advance agent. The opinion was expressed that the success of these saviors of the Republican party would depend upon the essential state of Colonel Roosevelt, who, it was said, alone could pass upon the Bull Moose attitude toward an armistice. None would suggest the name of a compromise candidate.

Roosevelt's policies and platform were analyzed and denounced by Governor Wilson in a speech last night at a workingman's dinner in the Yorkville Casino.

To accept Roosevelt's plans, Governor Wilson urged, would be merely to admit that Americans were tired of their liberty and were willing to surrender it. He declared his personal purpose to make war upon the Roosevelt program with all his strength, and he appealed to the people to reject it as proof that they needed no savior, except themselves.

Governor Wilson came to New York under the auspices of the Woodrow Wilson Westinghouse's League, which had arranged a dollar dinner for him.

Would Aid Immigrants.

Governor Wilson in his first public appearance in New York as the Democratic nominee for the presidency met two score editors of foreign tongue papers and talked immigration.

"If we can hit upon a standard which admits every voluntary immigrant," he said, "and excludes those who have not come of their own motion, with their own purpose of making a home and a career for themselves, but have been induced by steamship companies or others to come in order to pay the passage money, then we will have what we will agree upon as Americans.

"Multiplying the ports of entry will ease and facilitate and guide the process of distribution, and will above all things also supply the sympathetic information which is the only welcome that is acceptable to those who come."

Baseball Guessing Not So Very Bad, But Has to Impose Fine

Judge Bruce in the Malden District Court today handed down an important decision in which he says that it is no more wrong to guess on baseball games than it is to take part in any guessing contest where a prize is involved. He found the defendant guilty, however.

Thomas H. Melville, Jr., of Everett, was before the court on the charge of selling a baseball magazine to officers of the Watch and Ward Society and then accepting coupons of the publication from them containing guesses of the standing of big league teams and the number of runs made by them.

Melville was acting as agent for the magazine, which is published in Salem. The publication is conducting a guessing contest on the number of runs and winners in the big leagues.

Judge Bruce found Melville guilty and placed him on probation until January 11, on condition that he sell no more magazines.

It was then that Judge Bruce made his ruling. He said:

"Morally there was no more wrong to guess on the baseball games than to take part in any guessing contest where a prize is involved. Unfortunately, this particular case just comes under the statute and I have to find the defendant guilty."

BORDER THREATENED BY MEXICAN REBELS

PHOENIX, Ari., Sept. 5.—The Mexican border became most menacing today when officials of this town received an ultimatum from the Mexican rebels that if federal Mexican troops are transported over American soil into Sonora from Chihuahua the town of Nogales will be laid in ashes. The message intimates that other border towns will share a like fate. Repulsed in their first attack upon Naconan Sonora, the rebels made a second assault upon the place during the night, and fighting is still going on there, according to reports received early today.

FALL DOWN STAIRS KILLS LYNN MOTHER

Mrs. Hester Byrnes, sixty-five, living at No. 10 Strawberry avenue, Lynn, was killed today at her home by falling down a flight of cellar stairs. She had been subject to fainting spells. Mrs. Patrick Leger, who lives in the same house, found the body at the foot of the stairs and summoned an ambulance and doctors, but Mrs. Byrnes was dead before they arrived. She was a widow and leaves four children.

CROWN THIRD CARNIVAL KING

Today is the third day of the Mardi Gras at Revere Beach. Early in the day the throngs began to turn their steps Revereward and ere long the sands were black with people. The crowd bid fair to surpass those of the preceding two days.

Tonight there will be a new king and queen. Senator James Powers of South Boston was one of the winners in the AMERICAN'S contest and he will be the king. His queen, whom he selected, will be Miss Julia Smith of Beechmont.

It will be military night, with several companies of militia performing escort duty and competing for cash prizes for the best appearance. The carnival ball will be held tonight at the Nautical Garden ballroom, the king and queen occupying a throne and reviewing a march of all the costumed characters in the Mardi Gras parade.

Congressman Roberts and Mrs. Roberts, as the second king and queen of carnival, received a tremendous ovation as they rode through the double lines in the car of state. Afterward, the Congressman expressed his surprise and admiration of the Revere Mardi Gras. He declared that it rivalled in splendor the Mardi Gras at Los Angeles and other cities in the West that he had seen.

CHANDELIER MEN GO OUT ON STRIKE

Thirty-six members of the Chandelier Workers' Union and the Metal Polishers, Buffers and Platers' Union, went on strike today, at the shops of McKenney & Waterbury and the Jones-Bertch Company, for shorter working hours. They ask that the fifty-four-hour week be cut to forty-nine and a half hours weekly, so that they may have a Saturday half-holiday with no reduction in pay. Headquarters have been established for the strikers at No. 724 Washington street. Three other shops signed the agreement of the union and negotiations are now pending with two more.

WOMAN AGED 57 GOING TO SCHOOL

PENN YAN, N. Y., Sept. 5.—"The fear of being hazed and the lack of funds," said Miss Charlotte Swarts, aged 57 years, of Athens, Pa., "is the reason I have postponed from year to year going to school." Miss Swarts has entered Keuka Institute to prepare for Keuka College, entering with boys and girls forty years her junior. What education she now has she obtained without the aid of a teacher.

Ex-Secretary Shaw Quits as Director in Jail Labor Company

Leslie M. Shaw has resigned from the directorate of the American Fibre Reed Company, which the Sunday AMERICAN of last Sunday exposed as a corporation seeking to form a trust in the manufacture of red furniture by exploiting the convict labor of Maine and other States. The former Secretary of the Treasury, Philadelphia dispatches said today, had severed his connection with the corporation because he disapproved of the methods used in underwriting the stock. He declares he is in sympathy with its plans, but forbids the use of his name until certain conditions have been complied with.

The American Fibre and Reed Company, which has an office at No. 45 Milk street, promised at least 7 per cent on the preferred and 10 per cent. on the common stock and expects to double these dividends almost immediately because of its contracts with various State prisons which enable it to obtain its labor at one-fourth the cost of free workmen.

BATTLE RAGING BETWEEN RUSSIAN FLEET AND FORTS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 5.—Private dispatches received here from Sebastopol state that a desperate battle between the vessels of the Russian Black Sea fleet, which has mutinied, and the shore forts is still in progress today. The battle began yesterday.

The warships, as soon as the mutineers had seized them, opened a terrific fire on the city, to which the forts immediately replied with telling effect. Many of the warships were struck repeatedly by the fire from the forts the dispatches state, and one of them was sunk.

One cruiser of the fleet broke away and steamed to Burgas, Bulgaria.

JOHN D. EMPLOYE IN PISTOL BATTLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Search was renewed today at Tarrytown for the "Black Hand" agent who yesterday exchanged shots with an employe of the estate of John D. Rockefeller at Pocantico Hills, after a demand had been made for the payment of $500. The encounter resulted in a street duel.

The Rockefeller employe is Joseph Drago. No doubt exists that the blackmailer agent tried to kill him. The attack was made when there were many detectives and guards of the Rockefeller estate around. It has proved to Sheriff William J. Doyle that he has to deal with a more desperate set of criminals than he believed.

WOMAN LOSES L MERGER SUIT

Anna Young loses her suit to prevent the merger of the West End Street Railway Company with the Boston Elevated Railway Company by a decision handed down today, by Judge Colt in the United States District Court. The demurrer of the West End Company is sustained and the bill of the plaintiff dismissed.

The plaintiff holds bonds of $5,000 of the West End company, issued in 1902, and due in 1932. She raised the question as to whether the act of the Massachusetts Legislature "authorizing the consolidation of properties and franchises of the Boston Elevated Railway Company and the West End Street Railway Company" is unconstitutional and void. Judge Colt states that it is difficult to see how the complainant's constitutional rights are impaired by the statute in question. He is of the opinion that the Legislature has the right to pass a law for the transfer of the property of one solvent corporation to another.

MAYOR TO TAKE PART IN MAINE CAMPAIGN

Mayor Fitzgerald leaves tonight for Maine to take part in the Democratic campaign for the next two days. Tomorrow night he speaks at Rockland, and at Bath on Saturday night. Plans are also being made to have him speak in Portland. Today the Mayor is attending the waterways convention at New London, Ct., and will return to the city this evening to attend the National Postoffice Clerks Association banquet.

Valuable Discovery in Complexion Beautifier

(From The Home Maker.)

Because of its peculiar power of absorption, also because it serves every emollient purpose, ordinary mercolized wax is perhaps the most valuable complexion beautifier discovered within recent years. If one uses this she needs no toilet cream. Some use powder afterward, but this is not necessary and is undesirable, particularly when one perspires freely. This rule for applying mercolized wax has been found very satisfactory: Wash the face with warm water, drying lightly. Before thoroughly dry, anoint face and neck with the wax, but don't rub it in. The favorite way is to use before retiring, allowing it to remain on all night and washing it off in the morning with warm water. All druggists have this wax in original one-ounce packages.

For the removal of a wrinkled or flabby condition there's nothing better than to bathe the face in a solution made by dissolving 1 ounce powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel. Beneficial results are quickly noticeable.

CHICAGO "L" YIELDS; BIG STRIKE AVERTED

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—An arbitration agreement was reached between street car employes and company officials here today. The roads granted the concession the men demanded, and a single arbitration board will settle disputes for railway lines of all the companies involved. This averts a strike of 14,000 men.

I was just able to get hold of a number of pieces of the genuine Isaac Carr & Co. West of England Meltons. There are tailors in this city who sell these goods as low as $60 for an Overcoat, and from that price up to whatever the man has. Now, I bought these right, but there is not enough of them to last me a season, and it would be a good advertisement for me to put one thousand of these Overcoats on the men's backs in this city, as I consider them the finest advertisement it is possible for a tailor to produce. Now the average tailor when reading this will pooh-pooh and say that these are not genuine Carr Meltons. Every yard of these goods is stamped by the mill, and in this ad. I show this stamp, so there will be absolutely no possibility of misrepresenting. This cloth will be made up any style, single or double breasted, long or short, to suit the customer, and Carr's Meltons is the only cloth that we tailors advise a man to have made raw edge, with lap seams raw. Collar finished with velvet. I make this Overcoat to order at a price of $20.00, and for this week I will present to each customer a pair of $5.00 trousers free.

Rock Overcoating. In America today we have one concern who manufactures coating equal to anything made on the other side. They are at Rockville, Conn., and they have been able to produce a fabric that is sold by the finest tailors in the land as a foreign. Around 30 oz. in weight, I consider it a pure virgin wool and the equal of any cloth made. I have in all about 40 full pieces, and if skeptical I would ask you to write for samples. This coat is sold by the average tailor who is able to carry this kind of stock for price of $60 up. My price, including an extra pair of trousers, made any style,

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTING NEWS

WOOD CHALLENGED BY JOHNSON TO PITCHING DUEL

RED SOX RILEY'S COLUMN PASTIMES

BY the way, Connie Mack and Clark Griffith have not yet conceded the pennant to the Red Sox. Because—if Mack were to quit before the last dog is hung," it would mean a slump in the box office returns wherever the Athletics play, and for Griffith to acknowledge defeat before he is completely routed, would mean a decreased profits for the Senators henceforth. Also, then would end the contest feature of the affair. So, for the sake of the game, let's hope Mack and Griffith won't give up until the flag is nailed to the mast.

* * *

IF the two best teams in America played a series without any title at stake, the attendance would not exceed that at an ordinary mid-week game between lesser lights of the big leagues. As soon as the element of contest disappears, interest wanes with it. When the pennant race is absolutely and completely settled, interest will dwindle until the world's series revives it.

* * *

"I'M confident that we'll make things interesting for the Red Sox in the finish," says Griffith. "The Senators don't fear Joe Wood. We've got him twice and can do it again. But Griffith does admit that, if he can't win he hopes Boston will, which is very kind of Clark, but unnecessary, since, if he doesn't win, Boston MUST. Shore Boston leads his thirteen and one-half games, and Boston has twenty-seven to play, while the Senators have but twenty-four left on their schedule. Boston is willing to let Griffith enjoy what comfort he may have in the hope that "something" may happen between now and October 6 to change the aspect of things.

* * *

THE Sox have now won ninety games this season. The Senators have taken seventy-eight. If Washington were to win all its remaining games, the Senators would have a record of 102 victories, which would tie the high-water mark set by the Athletics in 1910. The Red Sox could best them out by winning thirteen of the remaining twenty-seven games still on Boston's schedule.

* * *

WITH a crowd estimated at from 18,000 to 20,000 at the opening game, the prediction that at least 75,000 will see the Sox-Senators series, is sure to be fulfilled—always assuming good weather. Last Saturday, 32,000 saw the Athletics and Sox, and fair weather next Saturday should bring out at least as large a crowd, notwithstanding the Summer holiday season closed last week, because it will be the last Saturday game at Fenway Park before the world's series, and, besides being a struggle between the two leading teams in the league—assuming that the Athletics fail to overtake the Senators meanwhile—there is a chance that Joe Wood and Walter Johnson will meet in a battle between the two speed stars of baseball.

* * *

AMERICAN league "fans" hope that Griffith and Stahl will not upset calculations by so disposing of Johnson or Wood as to avoid the much looked-for struggle between the two. Since the pennant is as good as won, they ought to let baseball followers have the opportunity of seeing such a contest, just as a sign loser.

* * *

GRIFFITH declares that he and Johnson are anxious for such a duel. In fact, the Washington manager, through the AMERICAN, has challenged Jake Stahl and Joe Wood to try conclusions, as told elsewhere in this edition, so there's no reason why the contest should not come off, to the glory and delight of all the "fans" in "fandom"—elsewhere in America as well as in Boston.

* * *

IT is the first time this season that there has been such a challenge, and the first time that such a contest could be held under such nearly ideal conditions. So let's see 'em at it.

* * *

THE Senators did not impress the vast crowd that went to Fenway park for the opening of the series as the fighters they have shown themselves to be all season long. They were completely mastered by Collins' pitching, and Walter Ruetigton, Vt., giant gave a superb exhibition on the mound.

* * *

THE Senatorial clouters were let down rather easily by Collins, under the circumstances. They reached his delivery for six safe hits. In the fourth inning Wagner fumbled Foster's drive and Gandil laid a stinging triple along the first base line, which scored the third sacker. In the sixth Milan led off with a single and, moving to second on Blanks' out, scored on Gandil's single through the box. The other four hits did not count. In only one case did the maker of one of them reach second base—Milan, who singled in the eighth, managing to get only as far as stone sack. Milan, by the way, is the best of the American League rookies, and his lone theft was all that Washington could negotiate with Collins and Carrigan doing battery duty.

* * *

AS usual, Collins gave no bases on balls at all and hit shoddy, and Mary rieis —or nearly clean—sheet in this respect in game after game speaks well for a left-hander—or for any kind of a pitcher for that matter. His control improves with every game.

* * *

WHEN Bill Carrigan blocked off Gandil's slide to the plate after "Chick's" three-bagger in the fourth, he probably saved the game. Washington looked like a third tally for Washington. Gandil took a short lead off third and Bill threw down to catch him. The ball hit "Chick" and when he and Gardner struggled to their feet, it rolled twenty feet into left field. Thinking that Gandil would not attempt to score, Gardner was a bit slow in starting after the ball, and "Chick" took advantage of the opportunity to dash for home. He found Carrigan waiting in front of the plate and, just as Gandil slid in, Gardner's bullet-like, accurate throw came to Carrigan so accurately that Bill did not have to take from his posture. there was a crash and, of course, Gandil being unable to touch the rubber, he was out.

GRIFFITH thought he might win the game with Engle, who gave a splendid performance at Fenway Park Memorial Day morning, almost beating the Red Sox. When Engle went to the discard in the second inning, through a string of hits and bases on balls, netting four runs, Griffith, realizing that he could not beat Collins with such a margin in Ray's favor, used up all his reserves yesterday, trying out Ballis, Mosser and Herring in turn. None of them was particularly impressive. The only relief pitcher who was effective was one of three Senatorial errors to score six easy runs.

* * *

GARDNER started this run getting and also gave the Senators a demonstration of Red Sox speed and daring that took the heart out of them at the beginning of the second inning, and thereafter the game was always well in hand and "on ice." Larry pounded one to right which would ordinarily count as a single, but by sprinting he made Shanks fumble for a moment and drew a hurry throw that was a bit wide to second, converting the hit into a double.

WORLD'S SPEED STARS AT BEACH

The greatest international bicycle sprint race ever booked for this section of the country has been arranged for next Saturday night at the Revere track.

The starters will be: Frank Kramer, American and world's champion; Alfred Gronda, champion of Australia, and Andre Perchicot, champion of France.

Both Kramer and Gronda have been seen here, the latter beating Jimmy Morna a few weeks ago. Perchicot has ridden one race in this country, the world's championship, and a few weeks ago in Paris won the championship of France.

His remarkable performance of qualifying the night he landed from the boat at New York, and beating by less than a foot in the final of the championships, stamps him as the best foreigner that ever rode in this country.

"Only Thing Now Is to See How Far Team Can Go," She Tells American.

"The Red Sox have won the pennant. The only thing left in baseball is to see how far the Red Sox can go," declares Mrs. Wood, mother of Joe Wood, the star pitcher of the team.

Although modest to the extreme, she is here to see the Red Sox play and say that the team cannot be beaten.

"I have seen Joe play but three games," she says, "but they have convinced me that he is with a winning team. I think baseball is a good profession for a young man to enter. It has certainly been a profitable one for Joe.

"I think baseball players are like all other business men. They must do the best they can. I know nothing about the game, but I like to see Joe win. If he was in any other business I would like to see him win."

RULES IN MOTOR BOAT CARNIVAL

ENTRY BLANK
BOSTON AMERICAN
MOTOR BOAT RACE.

Name of Boat.....
Owner's Name.....
Owner's Address.....
Class.....

Complete rules for the contestants in the big motor boat speed carnival on the Charles River Basin, at 2:30 p. m., September 14, under the direction of the Boston AMERICAN, are announced today by the committee in charge.

Entries in the various classes are coming in constantly, and a record breaking program is already assured. That all the thousands who will attend one or the other races equally well the contests will be around the basin instead of on a straight-away course.

Features of the carnival that are bound to interest thousands are the series of hydroplane races and the races between the T Wharf motorboat fishermen.

The complete set of rules as finally determined on are as follows:

The Complete Rules.

Race 1 and 6 will be handicapped under the American Power Boat Association rules. Races 7 and 8 are free for all.

Owners of boats starting in other classes must make statement of speed of their boats in statute or nautical miles per hour. To ascertain this, run your boat both ways over a fairly long course, the exact length of which may be determined from the chart, or from measurements, and from this you may compute your speed.

This speed will be used by the Race Committee in assigning the handicap. If the actual speed of your boat is found to materially exceed the speed given, the committee will tax the boat accordingly, so be careful to ascertain your speed correctly.

Every boat must carry at least two persons throughout the race.

Boats must be propelled by internal combustion motors, using gasoline, kerosene or alcohol for fuel. Benzine, picric acid, ether or any ingredient to increase the power of the fuel will not be allowed, and no gasolene lighter than commercial 76 degrees Beaume scale shall be used.

Each boat must fly a flag number throughout the race. These may be obtained of the AMERICAN. Secure flag before making entry.

All boats competing must run with mufflers. All boats not thoroughly muffled will be disqualified.

Protests must be made in writing and received by the committee within forty-eight hours of the race.

Keep clear from the starting line until your turn comes.

The Classes.

The classes are as follows:

1—Racers unlimited, handicap according to Gasoline Power Boat Association rules, distance ten miles.

2—Open boats under twenty feet, stated speed handicap, distance five miles.

3—Open boats under twenty feet, stated speed handicap, distance five miles.

4—Cabin cruisers thirty to forty feet, stated speed handicap, distance five miles.

5—Cabin cruisers under thirty feet, stated speed handicap, distance five miles.

6—Hydroplanes, handicap according to American Power Boat Association rules, distance five miles.

7—T Wharf dories, boat for boat. Entrance free to all. Dories owned or run by fishermen. Distance five miles.

8—Free-for-all, open to any boat in New England, no handicap, distance fifteen miles.

The AMERICAN has made elaborate preparations for the day and boats from the New Hampshire, Maine and Rhode Island coasts will be on hand to compete. The boats in no way adapted for such events that the carnival ought to eclipse anything of its kind ever attempted in any part of the country.

Entries should be sent to the Motor Boat Editor, Boston AMERICAN.

RIVAL KNIGHTS IN ANNUAL BALL GAME

A stirring diamond battle is expected when the Jamaica Plain K. of C. team and the St. James Knights clash in their annual game at the National League grounds next Saturday afternoon. Both councils are represented by a speedy bunch of ball tossers and the struggle for supremacy is sure to be an interesting one.

The Jamaica Plain team has some well known players in the lineup. Included in the number are Flinn and Emery, two former Mechanic Arts players; Mergal, who won honors for English High; O'Brien, an ex-Latin School ball tosser; McGrath, who formerly pitched for Commerce High who formerly pitched for Commerce High, Freeburg, all of whom are well known in semi-professional circles.

Y-R-A-S, YOU WILL

By GEORGE E. PHAIR

WHEN the team is madly clouting,
And the pennant hopes are sprouting,
You will find the rooters shouting
For their voice is never still;
When the team goes downward shooting,
Losing games by frenzied booting,
Will you find the rooters rooting?
Y-A-A-S, YOU WILL.

WHEN you see a fellow spending,
And his bankroll seems unending,
You will find a crowd befriending
As he breaks a yellow bill;
But when luck begins to hound him
And misfortune starts to pound him,
Will you find a crowd around him?

WOMEN GOLFERS START TOURNEY

The Boston Women's Golf Association opened their Fall schedule of tournaments today with the medal handicap tourney at the Woodland Golf Club, Auburndale.

The secretary of this association, Miss Fanny C. Osgood, a niece of ex-Governor Draper, is among the starters and a most enthusiastic player. Miss Margaret Curtis of the Country Club, the national women's golf champion of the United States, is another prominent member, while her sister, Miss Harriet Curtis, Miss L. A. Walz, the Misses Duncan, Mrs. G. W. Roope, Mrs. G. H. Crocker, Mrs. F. W. Batchelder, Miss G. W. Edielsen, Miss Katherine Edgett and Mrs. E. C. Wheeler, Jr., the eastern women's champion, are others of the organization who play particularly good golf.

The tournament at Woodland is eighteen holes medal handicap play and is significant as the first of a series of meetings which the association has planned to prepare the Boston women for the national championship, which takes place the last of this month at the Essex County Club of Manchester-by-the-Sea.

English Women May Play Tennis on Coast

California lawn tennis players are making overtures to the English association with the view to bringing over to this country a team of the leading women players to compete along the Pacific Coast during the coming Winter season.

Ever since the successful campaign which Miss May Sutton made of English courts, finally winning the all-English championship several seasons ago, there has been an effort to establish an international series for women of Great Britain and the United States. It is said they a number of Californians, led by A. C. Way of Los Angeles, are now ready to put up an international trophy similar to the Davis Cup, provided the matches can be arranged.

The clean sweep which the Californians have made on the courts this season, and especially the showing of Miss Marion Browne in her winning of the American championship, have still further inspired the Californians.

FREE TICKETS TO SOX GAMES

Today, tomorrow and Saturday will be the last chance to see the Red Sox perform on the home grounds before the world series games, with the exception of a short series with the Yankees late this month.

The Senators being the attraction, it is sure to be hard to secure good seats at the game. The safest and surest way to see the games is by saving the baseball coupons now being distributed with the AMERICAN by the newsboys and newsdealers.

If one of these coupons corresponds with one of the hundred numbers printed on the sport pages of the AMERICAN each day, it entitles you to a free grandstand seat by bringing or mailing it to the AMERICAN Promotion Department, No. 5 Winthrop square.

Remember these coupons are valueless unless a big red cross appears across the front of them.

Worcester Golfer Plays Evans in Round Today

WHEATON, Ill., Sept. 5.—With the struggle in the national amateur golf championships narrowed down to four pairs of contestants, play in the third match was started today. Today's play was expected to develop the real strength of the champions and when the afternoon's play is over only four men who will show in the semi-final match will be left.

Interest centred largely in Charles Evans, Jr., former Yale star, and two favorites, Norman F. Hunter, the English player, who has so far escaped elimination, and Warren K. Wood. The four men played in excellent form yesterday, and it was predicted they would put up an exceptional struggle today. Pairings for today, Phelps vs. Jerome Travers, Raul Hunter vs. H. Kerr, Charles Evans, Jr., vs. H. Schmidt, W. K. Wood vs. N. F. Hunter.

ALL-STAR CARD AT PILGRIM A. A.

An all-star program of ten-round bouts will be given at the Pilgrim A. A. next Tuesday night. Frank Loughrey of Philadelphia will meet Frank Plotter, Dave Kurtz of York will meet Tommy Howell, the Quaker welterweight, and Dave Denher of Cambridge will meet Johnny Willets of Philadelphia.

American League—The Red Sox lead the Senators by thirteen and one-half games, and the Athletics by fifteen games.

National League—The Giants lead the Cubs by six games, and the Pirates by thirteen and one-half games.

With the first of the series with the Washington Senators so safely tucked away on the list that nobody will attempt to take it out again, the Red Sox went out to Fenway Park this afternoon determined to make it two straight and if possible, clean up the series with the American League runners up.

Jake Stahl and his hired men were eager to establish their superiority over the Senators decisively in this series as to remove Washington's merits as a baseball team from the field of argument after the pennant season is over.

The Sox have been everybody in the race except the Senators and the thirteen and a half games in front of Washington today.

Both of the games between the two teams, each side has won eight, so that there was a fair dispute today as to their relative standing on the season.

The Red Sox have won ninety games and the Senators seventy-eight this season. The Sox have twenty-seven games to play and the Senators twenty-four. The Sox, having a lead of thirteen and a half games, it is, of course, impossible—in any reasonable man's notion—for the Senators to overhaul them before October 6, when the season ends.

Therefore, besides the struggle for second place between the Senators and Athletics, there is only one mooted point yet open to discussion in the league race—Whether Washington or Boston has the better team, when they are opposed to each other.

This dispute makes this series take rank second only to the coming series for the world's championship. Of course the Senators and Red Sox will meet each other in three games in the closing days of the race, but the pennant will have been won then, and those games will probably be of relative unimportance.

The Red Sox won the first game easily, 6 to 2, and it was almost without features, except the steady and effective pitching of Ray Collins, the lanky Nox southpaw, against the batting terrors from Washington.

A Question of Pitchers.

Against Collins, Clark Griffith, the successful manager of the Senators gated Engel, and when he went to pieces in the second inning, the Sox making four runs in a row, Griffith undoubtedly figured on the "rookie." Gallia, Mosser and Herring, one after the other, realizing that he had no chance to beat Collins and decided to give the trio a trial against the coming champions.

Today Griffith will use either Cullop, Hughes or Groom, adding Johnson if necessary, and the latter will take Stahl sends Joe Wood to the slab, in accordance with Griffith's challenge to Stahl for a meeting between Johnson and Wood.

It is Hall's turn to work for the Red Sox today, and if he does not appear "Smack" O'Brien is the most likely candidate for the job. After them, the veteran comes Bedient. But Jake Stahl would not announce today whom he would use.

CHAMPIONSHIP PITCHING DUEL PLAN FOR TOMORROW

Wood Accepts Johnson's Challenge

challenge Jake Stahl to produce Joe Wood in a game in which the two will pitch to a finish during this series of the Senators and Red Sox.

I ask Stahl to arrange to have Wood pitch against Johnson, so that there will be a fair test of the relative strength of the two greatest speed men in baseball.

Let the meeting be prearranged, so that there will be no question of their respective merits after the game is over.

That is the best way to have it. I want to demonstrate that Johnson is a greater pitcher than Wood and if Stahl will consent to such an arrangement it can be proved.

When we came here it was believed that I would ask Johnson to pitch in all or part of more than one game of the series. On the contrary, I withheld Johnson, and I intend to withhold him until there can be a fair and square meeting between him and Wood on even terms.

I mean to go through with the challenge. If I cannot obtain an arrangement whereby the two men will meet at a given time, I intend to withhold Johnson from every game until Wood appears in the box.

We are required to arrange our batting order and hand it to the umpire before every game begins. Unless Stahl will consent to an arrangement whereby the two men will meet on a given date, I cannot announce in advance when Johnson will pitch.

But I intend to force the issue.

If Jake Stahl will not let Wood work if intends to use Wood, I shall ask Johnson to "warm up" every day, and on any day that Wood appears in the box, I shall send my pitcher in the first man, after which I will substitute Johnson, and the result will be the same as if the two men were scheduled to pitch against each other in a game.

Walter Johnson will be ready every day from now to the end of the series. He will not pitch until Wood does, and he will pitch when Wood does put in his appearance on the firing line.

Then there'll be a test, which will not be so agreeable as it would be if the matter were settled beforehand, but there'll be a test, just the same.

They'll Have To Show Their Hand.

If Wood does not pitch in any game of the series, then the Red Stahl and Wood as cowards, and go away with the satisfaction that I am the best pitcher in America in Walter Johnson, and the knowledge that I have established that fact by scaring off his only opponent worth while.

Word from Mr. Woods' stipulations struck with Walter Johnson and have Boiling Shaw will come out with an acceptance of this challenge.

The conditions are ideal. Neither team has any [illegible] Labor Day, when both of them scrap. Neither has any [illegible] date, the other. Let Stahl and Wood come forward and there'll be a battle worth going miles to see. There'll be no doubt after it's over who is the champion, and baseball sportsters will have something worth talking about for a long time to come.

Griffith is Good Natured.

Griffith [illegible] encourage good naturedly, and one suggested that he would dub Stahl and Wood as cowards if they did not [illegible] and he did so with a laugh, and announced that he was completely satisfied that neither Stahl nor Wood [illegible] [illegible] Washington games and [illegible] Johnson [illegible] [illegible] victories with [illegible] of the record established by Jack Chesbro in 1904 [illegible] Johnson won [illegible] nine games and lost nine. He won sixteen straight victories, equaling Cicotte's American League record and coming within three games of tieing "Rube" Marquard's world's record of nineteen straight.

Wood leads the league in percentage of games won of those he has pitched, while Johnson is third in the list.

"Fans" Are Excited.

It is a disputed question among "fans" as to whether Johnson or Wood is the better pitcher—man to man—and there is more argument over that question than over any other that beats the minds of the "fans" of the entire country at this exciting and glorious stage of the rival pennant race. "Typewriter Talk" [illegible]

Jimmy McAleer, president of the Red Sox, started the row when he [illegible] offered Griffith $50,000 for Johnson at a little dinner in Washington. At that dinner McAleer refused to admit that Johnson was a greater pitcher than Wood is. Now there's a chance for a show-down. Everybody's interested, and now is an ideal time to settle the controversy.

The Senators have beaten the Red Sox eight games and the Red Sox have beaten the Senators eight of the four games that Joe Wood has lost, Washington has won two. The Sox have also beaten Johnson twice.

YOUNG TWIRLERS BECOMING STARS

Many young pitchers with promising futures have been developed, particularly in the Federal League this season. The crop has been none too plentiful either, but those who have been found have made good.

Jim Dubuc ranks the best pitching find of the season. The French Canadian is the leading hurler on Hughie Jennings' flagging staff.

With no wonderful speed no wicked curves, but just enough of everything, delivered with a peculiar and consistent motion, making a wonderful change of pace possible, Dubuc, aided by a cunning and quick moving brain and a slow ball that does everything but stop on its way to the plate, is the star of the re-suits.

The excellent pitching of young Hugh Bedient has played a prominent part in the Red Sox success this year. In the spring when some of the veteran flingers of Stahl's staff were just soso, Bedient was going like a world beater.

Washington appears to have three very likely young chaps in Cashion, Engle and Mosser. Cashion was picked up late last year by Griffith from the Cleveland Americans, a consignment of stuff, and in his first game out beat the great Ed Walsh. Lack of control at one time made it seem as if he would never make a pitcher. In fact, early this year Griffith used him in the outfield because of his hitting ability.

Used regularly, he fell off his hitting as in often happens. Griffith then set out to make a pitcher out of him. He was used daily to pitch to the players in batting practice. He has shown enough stuff in the last few or six starts to warrant his use as a regular.

Stovall appears to have picked up four very promising youngsters in Hamilton, Allison, Adams and Baumgardner. Mack has three good ones in Houck, Pennock and Brown. National League clubs seem to have been just as lucky. Tesreau, Rixey, Lavender, Cheney, Hendrix, Robinson, Allen and Ilick-man are just a few of the good young pitchers in the National.

PILGRIMS HOPE TO TURN TABLES

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The Boston Pilgrims and Dahlen's Dodgers are ready for the battle of the second game of the series, in their fight for the fall championship.

While the two clubs fell in at the bottom of the National League, the game they unworked yesterday was the all brand. It was a twirling duel between "Nig" Clarkson and Eddie Stack, and proved to be one of the best [illegible] ever [illegible] for the season. Both youngsters had about everything in the line of baffling curves, and did their [illegible] on each side standing on their heads trying to connect safely with them.

Stack gave a wonderful exhibition of pitching [illegible] opponents down to three hits in the [illegible] innings, but it was only through an error by McDonald with two out in the ninth inning that he escaped defeat.

Dixson's performance was equally note worthy. Up to the eighth inning Brooklyn failed to get a bit off the Boston pitcher and in this chapter they got one.

The visitors went into the field for the last half of the ninth with the score 1 to 0 in their favor, due to a triple by Titus and a single by Hoblitzel scoring him. With each pitching like this [illegible] show one to one [illegible] as [illegible] dozen, but the unexpected happened.

Wilson opened the inning with a single, which Hoblitzel followed [illegible] out to Tittus and Smith's short fly fell into Jackson's hands for the second out. Most of the crowd was in the act of wishing Dahlen's proteges a happy extra inning when Nordyke, batting for Dixson, lined a single to right. With each pitcher [illegible] Nordyke [illegible] Complete forced out, McDonald to Lennox, but Dixson [illegible] Hooper, batting for Lennox, [illegible] Janvrin was walked purposely and Cutshaw ended the inning with a grounder to Devlin.

Other than the two teams settled down to a great exhibition of the pitching and close fielding.

In the thirteenth inning, after Boston had been retired in order, Brooklyn bunched two more hits off Dixson and won the game.

"Quaker Girl" a Charming Musical Comedy

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

The Quaker girl in musical comedy is a child after your own heart—if you have any doubts on the subject follow the route that leads to the Colonial Theatre and be convinced.

The best thing about "The Quaker Girl," which the Henry B. Harris estate is sending to Boston for an extended visit, is its delightful charm. It is neither too serious nor too artless, but is a delightful infection.

After all has been said and done after you have gorged yourself to the limit with all kinds of musical entertainment, the fact strikes home with a resounding knock that the daintiest and most satisfying musical plays come from the other side of the water.

You needed no urging last evening to make up your mind in favor of "The Quaker Girl"—it was a unanimous decision on the part of the audience.

The modern musical comedy that at most most frequently is so burdened with moments that remind you of frenzied vaudeville that you are always prepared for the worst. In the case of "The Quaker Girl" there was a grateful absence of hysterical novelties and noisy features—you got a square deal from the start.

Nor have "The Arcadians" has the Colonial been inhabited by so much sound musical comedy sense.

Melodies Are Catching.

Musically, "The Quaker Girl" can hold its own against the field. The pretty melodies of Lionel Monckton linger long on the ear and lend you to stiff attention. There was so much that was real and enjoyable in the music that you instantly overlooked the curious fact that you were sitting in the presence of a musical play in which neither of the two principal players made any particular claim to vocal prominence.

Miss Ina Claire, whose demure Quaker girl was a refreshing as a field of daisies, smiled and danced her way across the footlights to a friendly audience. She embarked upon no high vocal flights during her evening of conquest—it was not required. And she was very good to look upon, too.

The story of a simple Quaker girl, suddenly transplanted to the gay scenes of Paris, furnished James T. Tanner with a theme for his book. While the girl was a bashful ingenue, Miss Claire did not attempt to make her too good to be true—but she was very, very good, just the same. Her attractive personality, however, made her the real first musical comedy joy of the season.

The humorous moments of "The Quaker Girl" were in safe hands with Percival Knight, who played an American naval officer with an accent fresh from Piccadilly. That was easily forgiven. Mr. Knight worked faithfully and was amply rewarded. It was worth almost the price of admission to hear him explain why he had failed to supply a dashing Parisian with a bunch of white violets that had been promised.

Dainty Concoction.

Out of three sets of pleasant entertainment there came two real song birds. May Allison exhibited a agreeable voice, although it was hardly big enough to fill the theatre, and Lewys James was dragged into service for the important song number of the piece, "Come to the Ball." As a prince with a loose reputation Mr. James was not particularly convincing, but he made up for his shortcomings in that direction by putting the audience on its toes with his waltz song.

May Vokes shuffled her way through "The Quaker Girl" acting out occasionally with pert observations, and Maisie Gay would like a man at hard labor as Madame Blum. She was the most active person in the cast, and the wonder of it all is why she retains so much fullness of the figure under her strenuous existence. Gilbert Childs was quaintly humorous as a Quaker fallen by the wayside.

"The Quaker Girl" is a dainty musical concoction, beautifully staged and splendidly handled by its company. It is an entertainment that may be enjoyed for its lack of noisy orchestration and coarse comedy. Its refinement alone makes it worth seeing.

ARNOLD DALY COMING TO SHUBERT THEATRE

Arrangements have been made between the Messrs. Shubert and H. H. Frazee whereby Arnold Daly will appear at the Shubert Theatre next Monday evening in "The Wedding Journey." This will be the first performance on any stage of "The Wedding Journey," by John T. McIntyre, heretofore unknown as a playwright but well known as a journalist in Philadelphia.

Coincident with the premier of "The Wedding Journey" here next Monday Mr. Daly inaugurates a recently made contract between him and Mr. Frazee whereby the latter has arranged to produce a number of plays this season with which a repertoire will be made. Following "The Wedding Journey" it is planned to produce "The Deluge," by Herman Bezrer, a Swedish dramatist. Following this Mr. Daly will be seen in "Lorenzo, the Magnificent," a serious drama by Sam Benelli, an Italian poet-dramatist. Mr. Daly will also include in his repertoire an entirely new and unique play, "Sweet Will Shakespeare," in which he will interpret the title role and show for the first time on any stage a visualization of the immortal bard. While in London recently Mr. Daly secured the rights of a one-act play, "Lonely Eve," by Stanley Houghton, a hitherto unknown playwright who has since written what is considered the reigning success of London in "Hindle Wakes."

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

HUSBAND, sed Ma to Pa at breakfast yesterday, Husband, I have just learned a new way for a man to keep his temper & stop himself from knocking sum man cold in a fite or from jawing too hard at his faithful & pashunt wife.

Well, sed Pa, what is the prescripshun? Pa looked kind of suspishus at that, because he never knows wen Ma is joaking & wen she isent.

This is the idee, sed Ma. I was reading about it in a editorial & it was a wunderfully sensible editorial at that. The editorial sed that wen you feel a vilent fit of rage cumming on you the best thing to do is to chew on a straw or a toothpick & that will draw the blood away from the brain. You ought to try that the next time you fly into a rage, Husband, sed Ma.

But what if I shud happen to fly into a rage sum place where I couldent find a straw or toothpicks? sed Pa. Then what wud I do.

There was plenty of toothpicks in the resterant where we was the other nite, sed Ma. there was some on our table, but you dident even try to chew one before you bit that man that spuk to us wen you were at the cigar counter. You happened to hear what he sed, & you never seven looked at a toothpick, you knocked him out & made a scene rite in the hotel dining room. I heard a lady setting near me say that you were a brute to fite in a place where peepul dine.

Dear, dear, sed Pa. What a knock Lissen, wife, sed Pa, I may be a brute wether I fight in a place where peepul dine or wether I dine in a place were peepul ite, but as long as there are warts in this world that go around trying to win out with the ladies & acting like cheap rat masters, just that long I am going to be brute enough to start one from my knee & flatten sumbody's nose. Dont ask me to chew a toothpick to keep my temper wen I have a rest cause for losing it. Up in the woods, wen I was a humberjack, Pa sed, they dident chew toothpicks wen a fite calm up. They chewed cars, Pa sed. Now let me read the paper & tonite you & Bobbie can cum out to dinner with me.

So last nite we went to dinner at a cafay which a freind of Pa's had recommended to him. It was a pritty tuff place, & all of us noticed it the minnit we eat down.

Pa, I sed, these two men oover there look like gun men.

Mercy, sed Ma, I am afrade, let us git out of here.

There is nothing to fear, sed Pa, they know wen they look at me that you are safe.

Just then one of the men started to stare at Pa kind of hard & he sed so loud that everybody cud hear it: I know that big stiff over there with his lady freind & the kid. One time wen I was broke he wuddent buy me a drink. I've got money now, & I think I will go caver & shove it down his throat.

Lets git out, I sed Pa, sed Pa. Ma & Ma was as scared as Pa. So we canceled our order & went out & wen we got on the sidewalk Ma sed Well, noble hero, what are you going with that toothpick?

I am chewing it, sed Pa.

The Ten Ages of Beauty

No. 2—The Seeker

By MARGARET HUBBARD AYER.

WHAT is your favorite type of feminine beauty?

Do you recognize it in this fair creature disguised in mediaeval trappings looking longingly into the crystal ball in the hands of the sage and seeking so ardently for a glimpse of the future?

It is a familiar type that of the seeker. It is one that we see everywhere about.

The Seeker is she who knows that the future holds something vastly wonderful inexpressibly beautiful, surpassing all expectations, something for her alone.

What the search of the Holy Grail was to the Knights of King Arthur is this seeking and longing, this quest of the Unknown for the girl Seeker.

She is usually a frail looking girl, slightly built, her ethereal body seems more of the next world than this. Her face is pale, delicate, illumined with the spiritual glow, as if a steady flame of high desire and longing, which lights her on her search, glowed beneath the satiny skin and shown in the luminous eyes.

The eyes of the Seeker are large and full of life's mystery. At another bend in life's roads she knows she will find the foot of the rainbow, the meaning of everything which has puzzled her and her dream comes true.

Anything but Practical

And that bend in the road may come at any moment, so she always reads, a wise virgin with her lamp well trimmed and her eyes wide open, always seeking.

Sometimes I am afraid she is anything but practical. The common needs of life and human nature's daily food she ignores as much as possible. They are beneath her, for she is full of sympathy and tenderness once her attention has been called to things more humble than her high, exalted thoughts.

But she longs and seeks eternally for the great and mighty things, and sometimes her path leads her through all kinds of tangles.

There was Erymintrude, a Seeker, who looked much like this girl in the picture. She was frail and beautiful, with auburn blonde hair and great big violet eyes, that looked as if they always saw a wonderful spiritual vision.

She was always longing and searching for something more, something higher, finer, greater and more splendid than what life had given her.

Not material things, for she cared not for gold or riches, or beautiful clothes or worldly success. The things she had a mission, but was not sure what it was.

But she was a girl in an ordinary family and, eventually, she married an ordinary man, and, in course of time, they had a nice, fat baby, that would have been ordinary except that every baby is extraordinary in himself.

Still Erymintrude went on seeking the unattainable. Her household affairs got badly mixed, and the food on the table was pretty poor, but Erymintrude was above such things, for it took very little to nourish her and her adoring husband was the sort that will stand for anything from life so long as he loves and he loved Erymintrude—everybody did.

When she beat her cook earthward, she was capable of that so completely and unselfish devotion, but mostly, she looked up into the sky, searching for the rainbow with a pot of fairy gold buried at its root.

An Ordinary Thing

Then an ordinary thing happened. The fat baby contracted an ordinary and very bad disease, and the ordinary doctor said that he wouldn't have had to have that sickness if an had ordinary care. And the ordinary husband was distracted.

Then the longing, searching look vanished forever from Erymintrude's eyes. It was as if she had suddenly and unexpectedly come to that bend in the road that she'd always been looking for, and had found the rainbow and the pot of gold being trampled under her feet.

I'm here; it's right here, and I've been looking for IT all the time!" she cried.

Then she set to work with all the force and power of her nature to recapture what she had almost lost. With heroic self-sacrifice that compelled even the doctor's admiration, she wrestled for the baby's life and then set about to reorganize her household, and to find in every detail in the work the beautiful and spiritual significance that she'd been looking for in dreams and visions.

The ordinary baby, fat once more, probably realizes that he has the finest type of mother, now that the Seeker has come down to earth. And perhaps he wonders why she called him "Pot of Gold" when she hugs and cuddles him at night. It must seem a silly nickname to a sensible, pudgy little baby with a good appetite and no imagination. As for the husband, he knows that his wife is the one perfect type of beautiful womanhood, the Seeker who has found her quest. And she is making a successful man of him, for she has turned those vague spiritual powers of hers to practical everyday use, and is the inspiration, the guide, and the source of his happiness and contentment.

Liquid Measure

IT was the time of the singing lesson at the school, and the teacher was explaining to the young boys just what if a "treble," an "alto," a "tenor" and a "bass" sang together, their united efforts would constitute a quartette.

There seemed no trouble about that, and the teacher thought the class was getting on very well.

"Now, then, suppose I am pitching your voices and sing like this," he said, and she

The Price of Pleasure

By DOROTHY DIX

THIS other day the papers printed a story that had in it a lesson and a warning that every girl who read it should take to herself.

This was the story of a girl who was a good girl, who belonged to a most respectable family, whom she lived and who was at work making her own honest living, but she loved pleasure and gayety, just as every girl does, and she wasn't as wise to the dangers that beset a girl in a great city as a girl should be. So this pretty, foolish young girl let a good-looking, well-dressed masher speak to her on the street under the pretense that he thought he recognized her, and then, as he apologized in a graceful manner, she consented to walk home with her. He looked like a gentleman to her unsophisticated eyes, and when he asked her to go automobile riding with him the next day the temptation to go spinning over the roads on a hot summer evening, as she saw other girls doing, was too much for her, and she accepted his invitation.

The next evening the man drove up in a beautiful car, and the girl, all aglow and happiness, and joyous anticipation fluttered into it, and they drove away, and that was the last that her family saw of her until three or four days later when a poor, broken, hollow-eyed creature, staggered home and fell fainting across her doorsteps, crying out she wished she was dead. The doctor said she had been drugged, and she herself can tell nothing of what happened on that fatal ride except that three stopped for a drink and that the next thing that she remembered was that she was in some dreadful house from which she had just sense enough to run, and that since nothing that she gave her parents would induce her to put on the plane of the fact that pains you at once with tenderness and all the world.

Try a TIZ foot bath and your wrinkled brow will smooth out as if magic did half of the pain.

Are All Plungers

This was the price that one girl was willing to pay for a bit of pleasure, innocence and happiness, for an hour's spin in an automobile—it's a pretty poor bargain, isn't it girls? Yet how many of you are tempted to make just as hasty a trade as this poor girl did for the sake of just as fleeting an amusement!

Of course you don't put that way to yourself. You don't figure it out. You don't try to balance accounts with what you want to do and what the results may be. All young people are plungers. They take what they want with a reckless disregard of consequences, believing that somehow or other they are going to escape having to pay the piper. Or that the score will be light.

But they never do, and the bill is always heavy. Sometimes the girl who is the end every woman settles her account with life to the last penny, and for everything that she has gotten she pays, and if there is anything that she should not have had, she pays for it with tears, and sorrow, and shame.

The saddest thing on earth is that when nature gives us tastes and desires, fairy does not always give us the means to gratify them. This is the tragedy of life, and especially it is the tragedy of poverty. The working girl on a $3 or $10 or $15 salary has precisely the same yearning for pretty clothes, for gayety, for companionship as does the rich girl with a hundred or two hundred a month allowance.

The rich girl has her home, her social circle where she may meet young men properly; she has her mother to chaperone her, and so she may indulge her natural desire for pleasure and for associating safely.

The working girl often has no home but a bad bedroom; no place to receive men company except in an overcrowded little flat or on the park bench. Her only way to meet young men; no amusement save the dance hall, or a cheap excursion; no chaperone, or the home be hurt worried to look after her. In these conditions lies her danger.

Count the Cost

She craves diversion after her dull days work in office or store, and the temptation to take it without counting the cost is great. It is greatest in Summer when the balance of the world is amusing itself, and so I say with all the earnestness that I can command, don't pay too high a price for your fun, girls.

Because you are bored and lonely don't pick up the acquaintance on a park bench of some good-looking youth of whom you know nothing except that he has a glib tongue, and is dressed like a ready-made clothing advertisement. It may be very amusing and romantic to flirt with him and meet him by appointment under a certain tree every evening, and it may thrill you for him to hold your hand and kiss you in the moonlight, but just count up the cost of the entertainment.

Those kind of affairs don't end at the ice cream girls. Sometimes they are all right, and sometimes they are not. Sometimes you get in with a gay and hilarious crowd who are whooping things up and drinking too much, and you trail along because you don't want to be a spoil sport, and high spirits are contagious and you think it won't hurt, for once.

You can't afford it girls. Believe me, such pleasures as that come too high and that many a girl who indulges in one such frolic spends the balance of her life in repenting it.

Then there's the temptation of the automobile. When the wife first put on the market they were called, in the slang of the day, "devils' wagons." They are still all that, and some more, when some old rounder with pouchy eyes and a leery look tells you that his wife's away and asks you if you won't ride out with him to a little roadhouse he knows where you can have dinner on the terrace.

Your nerves are racked with the heat and work, and nothing else could seem so alluring as the thought of speeding away from blistering streets to shady country roads, but before you go count the cost, and see if the price isn't prohibitive.

There's nothing for nothing in this world. For everything we get we must pay. Just remember that, and don't buy your fun at a price that will leave you a bankrupt.

Believes This Will "Cure Lung Troubles"

Consumption is a disease which should not be trifled with. If the trouble is present, don't waste time in argument.

If a so-called "cold" has long persisted; if a cough at present that keeps you anxious; or any of the symptoms exist, such as fever or night sweats, weakness and loss of appetite, and perhaps some raising of mucus—the sensible thing—take Eckman's Alterative—as Mr. Bettersworth did.

Bowling Green Ky., R. No. 4.

Gentlemen:—Two years I had a severe cough for six months. I tried all the medicine that was recommended to me, but no results came for the better. At last I tried your medicine. In one week's time there was quite an improvement in my condition. After I had taken the second bottle I was well and never felt better. I would gladly write you a testimonial if you desire it. Yours truly, Mrs. Alf. Reilly. (Signed) MRS. ALF. REILLY.

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in building the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit forming drugs. Sold by druggists. HINTS ON HOW TO BE BEAUTIFUL

REFINES THE COMPLEXION—Wonderful in its effects in clearing, whitening and beautifying the complexion is a cream fully which is made by stirring together and allowing to stand over night before using, one ounce almond, two teaspoonfuls glycerine and one-half pint cold water. This greasless preparation smooths out wrinkles and hollow cheeks when used for massaging and is splendid for removing freckles and other skin discolorations. It reduces the size of large pores and leaves the skin soft, smooth and velvety.

MAKE GILAN SCALPS—No other known shampoo cleans the hair and scalp so thoroughly and quickly as a teaspoonful of canfrox dissolved in a cup of hot water. It takes out all dandruff and dirt, the hair rinses easily and dries quickly without streaking, becoming dull and brittle. The scalp will feel fresher and cleaner than ever before, and the hair will be very bright, soft and fluffy. Those who once try this wonderful, inexpensive shampoo will never again use soap or egg shampoos in any form.

A SAFE FAT-REDUCER—To cut down weight without injuring one's health take before each meal a tablespoonful of the following: Dissolve four ounces parmelo in one and one-half pints hot water and strain through cloth. Although a simple remedy, it is very effective and many persons have rapidly reduced in weight without leaving any ill effects, such as a wrinkled, flabby skin. Dietting and strenuous exercises are unnecessary.

A HEART STRENGTH APPEAR—A paste made with powdered digitalis and water is excellent to remove hair or fuzz from the face neck or arms. After the paste is on for three or four minutes remove and the hairs come with it. This treatment is painless and after the skin has healed it will be found to be free from spot or blemish.

FOR SHRINKEN BUST—Dissolve one and one-half ounces sugar in one pint water and add one ounce gelitol. Take two teaspoonfuls at meal time. This is the famous vaseline treatment for scrawniness and under-development of bust. Because of its stimulating action on the starved tissues and glands it soon rounds out the figure, making it plump and beautiful.

Daysey Mayme and Her Folks

WHEN A WOMAN TELLS A JOKE

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE

"Oh, I know the funniest story," bobbled Daysey Mayme Appleton at dinner last night. "It's about that woman who used to live across the street, and you will just split your sides laughing when you hear it."

Lysander John smiled in anticipation of the feast of mirth, Mira. Appleton laughed in sympathy, and Chauncey Devere, after the manner of all brothers, looked skeptical. He had seen his sister stroll into the Joke Kingdom before.

"Oh, it's too funny," gurgled his sister. "You know she——" titters, giggles, and a hysterical scream.

If one were to put all the sound notes in a chopping bowl, and chop them up, each note screaming all the while, the sound would be very much like Daysey Mayme's laugh. It is a cross between the triumphant shouts of the cannibals about to roast a missionary and the wails of the missionary so soon to be eaten.

One never knew when hearing Daysey Mayme Appleton if one should run from her or to her. All girls laugh the same.

"You know," she went on, the gale having temporarily subsided, "who I mean," looking at her mother.

Mrs. Appleton didn't know, but smiled encouragingly.

"Oh, you do, too," said Daysey Mayme with some impatience. "She always wore so many sidecombs, and had a white dress trimmed with blue."

Mrs. Appleton named a dozen women who wore sidecombs and had white dresses trimmed in blue, her daughter's anger growing with every name.

"Her father died," said Daysey Mayme, trying to jog her mother's memory, "and they had a dog, and you know who I mean just as well as can be, but you won't try to remember."

There were squalls ahead. Chauncey Devere's skeptical smile changed to one of conviction, and Lysander John began to look worried.

"Never mind the woman's name," he said, "tell the story without it."

"I can't," sobbed his daughter. "The joke was all about her name, and no one is trying to help me, and there's no use in me trying to tell it or ever try to be funny again. All the magazines say a girl should try to amuse her family, and I'd like to know how she can when her folks are stupid as mine."

More sobs and more tears.

Then she flounced out of the room in a temper and the last sound she heard was her brother's laugh.

He, alone, of all her family, had a sense of humor.

Do You Know That—

Baron Marshall von Hiebenstein, the new German Ambassador, is said to have a novel method of avoiding any possible indiscretions on the part of his blotting pad. He uses a typewriter specially constructed for him, whose secrets are known to himself alone. This machine marks cryptographic signs understood only by the Baron and his correspondents. It is kept locked up in the Ambassador's desk, and is brought out only when he has a confidential letter to write.

An agricultural journal prints on its front page the novel announcement that, as farmers are so busy with the cultivation of their fields, and have so scant leisure for reading, the news of the day will be briefly printed on the first page of the paper, and the other page will be soaked with a "death to flies' preparation. Thus the paper will serve two purposes—it will supply important news and will serve to exterminate flies.

Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth, holder of the world's long distance riding record, has made a new record by out-distancing two army officers in a 900-mile ride from Washington to her Summer home. She was the only one of the five starters to complete the trip.

Warnings against frost are sent out by the United States Weather Bureau to farmers and orchardists, and it is estimated that ten million dollars' worth of property has been saved as the result of one such forecast.

BACKACHE NOT A DISEASE

But a Symptom, a Danger Signal Which Every Woman Should Heed.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangement. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Read about Mrs. Woodall's experience.

Morton's Gap, Kentucky.—"I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back nearly killing me, and I would have such dragging sensations I could hardly bear it. I had soreness in each side, could not stand tight clothing, and was irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am enjoying good health. It is now more than two years and I have not had an ache or pain since. I do all my own work, washing and everything, and never have backache any more. I think your medicine is grand and I praise it to all my neighbors. If you think my testimony will help others you may publish it."—Mrs. OLLIE WOODALL, Morton's Gap, Kentucky.

Every woman ought to have Lydia E. Pinkham's 80-Page Text Book. It is not a book for general distribution, as it is too expensive. It is free and only obtainable by mail. Write for it today. Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

Dainty Offerings for Summer's End

The above charming picture shows three suggestions for blouses which are extremely attractive. That very popular favorite of the moment, the Robespierre collar, forms the chief decoration of the blouse worn by the central figure in the group. The blouse on the right hand depends entirely on its beautiful lace collar, which droops slightly in front, revealing a chemisette of smoothly stretched net.

WITHOUT showing any surprise, perhaps too engrossed in her own thoughts to feel any, she answered with simple directness, "Yes, I am Doris Scott." Whereupon he became his most persuasive self, and pulling out a folded paper from his pocket, opened it and held it before her, with these words:

"Then will you be so good as to glance at this letter and tell me if the person whose initials you will find at the bottom happens to be in town at the present moment?"

In some astonishment now, she glanced down at the sheet thus boldly thrust before her, and recognizing the O and the B of a well-known signature, she flashed a look back at Sweetwater, in which he read a confusion of emotions for which he was hardly prepared.

"Ah," thought he, "it's coming. In another moment I shall hear what will repay me for the trials and disappointments of all these months."

But the moment passed and he had heard nothing. Instead, she dropped her hands from the door jamb and gave him an unmistakable evidences of intended flight that but one alternative remained to him; he became abrupt.

Thrusting the paper still nearer, he said, with an emphasis which could not fail of making an impression, "Read it. Read the whole letter. You will find your name there. This communication was addressed to Miss Challoner, but——"

Oh, now she found words! With a low cry she put out her hand in quick entreaty, begging him to desist and not speak that name on any pretext or for any purpose. "He may rouse and hear," she explained, with another quick look behind her. "The doctor may become conscious any minute. If he should and were to hear that name it might kill him."

"He?" Sweetwater perked up his ears. "Who do you mean by he?"

"Mr. Brotherson, my patient, he whose letter"——but here her impatience rose above every other consideration. Without attempting to finish her sentence, or yielding in the least to her curiosity or interest in this man's errand, she cried out, with smothered intensity, "Go! go! I cannot stay another moment from his bedside."

But a thunderbolt could not have moved Sweetwater after the hearing of that name. "Mr. Brotherson!" he echoed. "Brotherson, Not Orlando?"

"No, no; his name is Oswald. He's the manager of these works. He's sick with typhoid. We are caring for him. If you belonged here you would know that much. There! that's his voice you hear. Go, if you have any mercy." And she began to push to the door.

But Sweetwater was impervious to all hint. With eager eyes straining into the shadowy depths just visible over her shoulder, he listened eagerly for the disjointed words now plainly to be heard in some nearby but unseen chamber.

"The second O. B." he inwardly declared. "And he's a Brotherson also, and—sick! Miss Scott," he whisperingly entreated as her hand fell in manifest despair from the door, "don't send me away yet. I'm a question of the greatest importance to put you, and one minute more cannot make any difference to him. Listen! those cries are the cries of delirium; he cannot miss you; he's not even conscious."

"He's calling out in his sleep. He's calling her. Just as he has called for the last two weeks. But he will wake conscious—or he will not wake at all."

The anguish trembling in that latter phrase would have attracted Sweetwater's earnest, if not pitiful, attention at any other time, but now he had ears only for the cry which at that moment came ringing shrilly from within——

"Edith! Edith!"

The living shouting for the dead! A heart still warm sending forth its longing to the pierced and pulseless one, hidden in a far-off tomb!

To Sweetwater, who had seen Miss Challoner buried, this summons of distracted love came with weird force.

Up-to-the-Minute Jokes

Farmer Jones was on a visit to his nephew in Boston, and the two went to a cafe for dinner. They had given their order and were waiting for it to be brought when the younger man, who had been glancing at a menu card that lay on the table, said:

"By the way, uncle, did you ever have cerebro-spinal meningitis?"

"No," replied Uncle Jones, after a few moments' mental struggle with the question, "and I don't want any. I'd rather have fried liver and bacon any day."

They had been having a little tiff.

"Oh, of course," said he, wrathfully, "I am always in the wrong."

"Well, what's that got to do with it?" he demanded.

"Nothing, except that you were perfectly right when you admitted it," she replied.

HOLD-UP MEN'S VICTIM DEAD

The police are looking for the footpads they think beat and robbed Edward M. Wilcox, sixty years old, of No. 21 Park street, Norwood, who died in the Relief Hospital a few hours after he had been identified. A locket mentioned in newspaper accounts of the supposed attack of Mr. Wilcox attracted the attention of his sister-in-law, who identified the man after he had lain almost four days with his name unknown to the authorities.

A patrolman of Station 1 found the man, who was a printer, wounded and unconscious, near a Fulton street doorway. It was thought at first he might have fallen and struck his head sharply on the walk, but examination at the hospital revealed a fracture of the skull, which it is believed was caused by a blow with a club.

The wounded man was well dressed, but in his pockets was not a cent. Neither could the police find anything which would give them a clew to the dying man's identity. Not until his sister-in-law saw the description of the locket, which contained a picture of Mr. Wilcox's wife, was it learned who the hospital patient was.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRIGON.

The price of gasoline has now risen so that it is profitable to import it from abroad, and 1,190,000 gallons were recently brought into this country from Borneo. Half of this cargo was unloaded in Philadelphia, and 600,000 in New York, where it went to the garage trade. The importation was made by the Gulf Refining Company, which is one of the competitors of the Standard Oil Company. The fact that there is no tariff on gasoline enables the company to place the Borneo product in competition with the "S. O." Just what effect this importation will have on prices cannot be seen at present. Figuring the yearly consumption of gasoline by automobiles at about 220,000,000 gallons, the importation amounts to one-thirtieth of the total. If importations of this size continue and the gasoline can be sold at a fair price, the situation seems to hold out some promise for the automobile.

A letter to the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, O., from C. H. Gray, the company's district manager in Texas, tells of a wonderful performance of Goodyear non-skid tires equipping a specially built Mason racing car driven by Bradley at the recent race meet at Galveston Beach.

"After a gruelling contest of 200 miles the tires came out as good as new, and not a second's trouble was experienced," writes Mr. Gray.

Before the performance was the fact that the tires, in the two or three days prior to the big race, and for the race itself before going to Galveston, had been through a cruiser of hot country that was sufficient to ruin any tire. When the Mason car started, the non-skid portion of the tread had been worn down almost completely, and the general impression was that the tires would not last the race through.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

STATE STREET, Sept. 5.—Midday—The local market was firm and quiet when trading began and the prices during the first hour developed considerable irregularity. Among changes to advance were Mayflower, Old Colony, Indiana, Lake, Calumet & Arizona, Granby and North Butte. Gains by Mayflower and Lake were more than a point. In the recessional list were Mason Valley and Wolverine. Butte and Superior declined a little. Among other stocks to recede were United Shoe Machinery and United Fruit.

Tone Firm in New York.

After a brief space of hesitation around the opening time the tone of the New York market grew firmer, and at the end of the first half hour prices in general ranged above yesterday's closing. Trading was more active and demand for issues in all the important groups improved. Reading and Canadian Pacific were active at the start, the former starting at 168⅞, again of ⅞ over yesterday's closing, and within fifteen minutes had advanced to 169⅝. Canadian Pacific opened with an advance of ½, but upon the next few sales increased its aggregate gain to 1¼. Steel common moved from ¾ to ⅞ higher. Other initial gains were: Amalgamated ⅛ to ¼, Atchison ¼ to ⅝, Southern Pacific ¼ to ⅜, and Lehigh Valley ½.

The Curb was steady.

American Ice Securities lacked public interest, but were higher. Canadian Pacific was harder.

Copper Sold Abroad.

The London copper market opened firm with spot up 5s. and futures 7s. 6d. higher.

Foreign buying of the metal in this country has been resumed on a considerable scale. While European demand has increased within a few weeks, domestic ordering has declined in volume. The most recent foreign buying was for October-November delivery. The price was 17¾ cents a pound.

Copper is said to have been sold to domestic consumers at a slight premium over October-November delivery. Producers, however, have comparatively little spare metal on hand, according to statements from well-informed sources. The New York Sun says: "The Copper Producers' Association will meet on September 9, as the regular meeting date, the 8th, falls on Sunday. A standoff in surplus stocks is looked for, with a small change either way to be recorded. In some quarters a decrease is looked for, but the general expectation is that the surplus copper on hand September 1 will show a small gain over the tonnage reported on August 1."

Financial News in Brief.

Orders placed for structural steel so far this year total about 1,022,000 tons. Railroad buying, however, has been so comparatively light that big business from the railroads is looked for next year. Much bridge building is expected in 1913.

The Texas Company, formerly the greatest of all independents, has not suffered any from Standard Oil competition since the dissolution of the Rockefeller combine. Its business has increased so within a year that it has gone from the 8 to 9 per cent. per annum dividend basis.

Thompson, Towle & Co. say that St. Paul's earnings for July were even better than the semi-official estimates put out during the latter part of last month. The statement shows an increase of $71,000 in operating revenues and an increase in net of $359,000. These earnings make a better comparison with the previous corresponding month than any statement put out in a very long time. They should do much to strengthen the belief now generally held that the St. Paul will be able to continue 5 per cent. common dividends without serious difficulty.

Pugh's Financial Sound Extension also had a very successful month. Its gross earnings increased $280,000, and net gained $162,000.

During August just the iron output in the country was 585,000 tons more than in the entire 1911 month. The Iron Age says that August specifications poured in upon steel works and rolling mills in a rate never before known in that month.

The United Cigar Stores did a phenomenal business for August time but now, and it is said that sales in the South far exceeded expectations. There is a well defined report to the effect that the stock will be put upon a 6 per cent. basis.

Charles W. Morse will today open offices at No. 43 Exchange Place, New York, which was the location of the Bank of North America, wiped out in the 1907 panic. It is reported that his offices will be fitted up as headquarters for a new steamship line which will be named the Morse Transportation Company.

Regarding Amalgamated, Hunt, Ellis and Company say: "For the fiscal year ended August 30, 1912, the Amalgamated Copper Company, through the operations of the companies in which it holds stock, has earned a profit, it is estimated, on some 200,000,000 pounds of copper produced. The net profits of the company for that year were $6,047,006 or at the rate of 4.22 per cent. on its $153,387,000 par value of stock. These earnings would figure out at the rate of 2 1-3 cents per pound of each of the 200,000,000 pounds of copper. BALLET DANCING TO "REDUCE" MRS. BRADLEY-MARTIN

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Mrs. Bradley-Martin is taking a unique cure for increasing her weight and keeping it in style. The American woman has tried everything under the sun to become slim, but in vain. Now she has turned to ballet dancing, and twice a day, for an hour, goes through various steps and movements, under the tuition of a member of the Russian ballet.

The treatment begins with the exercises for the legs, the arms and the trunk, eventually working up to the neck and face and stomach tuition play.

BEAM TRAWL INQUIRY TO OPEN NEXT WEEK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—The investigation of the beam trawl method of fishing by the Bureau of Fisheries of the Department of Commerce and Labor as provided for in a bill introduced in Congress by Representative Gardner, will probably be started next week. It is not at all unlikely that Commissioner George M. Bowers will take personal charge of the investigation. Opposition to the beam trawl fishing was started last Winter by the Gloucester fishing interests.

BOSTON ELKS GO TO ROCKY POINT FOR BIG CLAMBAKE

Five hundred strong, Boston Lodge, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, marched through the downtown streets of Boston early today to martial music and the click of a motion picture machine to the South Station, where they took a special train for Rocky Point, R. I., for their annual clambake and outing.

At Providence, the Rhode Island Elks joined the contingent and marched from the station to the special cars that were waiting in Exchange place to convey the party down the shore to Rocky Point. Governor Pothier joined the party in Providence.

The ball game between the crack nine from Lodge No. 14 of Providence and the Boston team was one of the principal events on the calendar. For those who don't play ball there was the free-for-all pige, tobacco and match race in the wind and a rat man's race eligible to all over 225 pounds.

SOCIALISTS TO TRY BRUERE AS TRAITOR

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Robert W. Mr. Bruere may be compelled to show cause why he should not be ousted from his party.

George Monck Is Gone, and the Blue Anchor Tavern

But on the Whole Boston Is a More Delightful Place to Visit Than It Was in What Some Call the "Good" Old Days—The Good Old Days Are Here Right Now, and We Feel Sure That Our Friends Throughout New England, When They Run in to Do Their Fall Trading, Will Agree With Us

Our friends throughout New England—residents of that greater Boston which numbers 1,500,000 inhabitants and is the tenth city in the world—will find when they come to town for their Fall trading that Boston is determined to hold her place as the great shopping centre of the East. Never have the stores and shops of this fine old city looked so well as they do today. New York and Paris have nothing better.

Boston has always been the great trading centre of New England. It is likely she always will be. From the very beginning of the settlements in New England the journey to Boston, an annual holiday, to see the town and to visit the shops, has been looked forward to with delightful anticipation.

Doing one's shopping in the big city is not the adventure today, however, that it was in the time of our forefathers.

How many of us realize that the American railroad, tremendous factor as it has come to be in the life, the commerce, the industry, the legislation and even the politics of the land, is not yet one hundred years old? How many of us know that in 1830 there were only forty-eight miles of railroad in the United States?

And what would the people of Worcester, of Portland, of Bellows Falls, of Concord, of Woonsocket, whose annual, or semi-annual, or quarterly, or it may be weekly, visit to Boston means little more than stepping from trolley car to railroad train, think of traveling under such conditions as John Adams has described, in his diary, under date of June 8, 1771:

"Looking into the almanac," says Adams, "I am startled. Supreme Court at Ipswich is the eighteenth day of June. I thought it a week later, twenty-fifth, so that I have only next week to go home, one hundred and twenty-five miles. I must improve every moment. IT IS TWENTY-FIVE MILES A DAY IF I RIDE EVERY DAY NEXT WEEK."

Today, thanks to the telephone, the trolley, the automobile and the railroad train, the most distant part of New England is only a short ride from the greatest retail stores in America. Mr. and Mrs. New England have merely to watch the newspapers to learn what these great stores have to offer. The rest is easy.

If our friends have not been to town lately, they will be surprised by the era of store development they find in Boston this Fall. It is everywhere.

One of Boston's largest stores has moved across the street into a magnificent new building several times larger than the old; its neighbor, another great store, increases its selling space materially by building a big addition to the old store; an old-established department store has outgrown its quarters and moves into a larger building; still another department store announces the building of an addition; yet another has acquired the right to go through into a new street; another has lately completed an annex, an enormous store in itself.

A new department store will soon open, we are told; a big furniture house will build a splendid new building. The Roxbury district is to have another new department store; two older ones in that section are building additions. A large clothing house, recently established in Boston, has found it necessary to double its room; two big clothing houses in lower Washington street are developing into big department stores.

On every hand, in fact, big Boston stores and smaller Boston stores are adding a floor here, taking an adjacent store there, putting in new windows here, breaking out new entrances there.

All of which is making Boston a finer town to live in and a better town to do business in.

When we observe some of the fashions of the day, by the way, and particularly some of the fashionable toggery of the ladies—bless them—we wonder what the Puritans of old would have thought of them, and what they would have done about them. Imagine Governor John Winthrop, for instance, seeing the first hobble skirt!

History tells us, you know, that when the Great and General Court was not occupied with the graver business of State, it devoted itself to correcting morals, and particularly to regulating dress and fashion, for that was a large part of morals.

And whenever the sturdy Puritan in the colonies faltered for a moment he was nagged by his fiercer brothers in England into busying himself with the small affairs of his neighbors.

One wrote to Governor Winthrop, in 1636, "many in your plantations discover much pride." These proud sinners had been ordering lace of the narrower kinds in England, "going as far as they may," because wide lace was prohibited. They wrote, too, for "outt-works coifes," and others for "deep stammell dyes." All of which is bewailed by the stern moralist.

Well, you may come to Boston now and buy lace as wide as fashion or fancy dictates and none will say you nay.

In those olden days, too, the law set a limit upon the profit that might be made by the Boston merchant. We find no warrant for that sort of thing today. The great Boston stores are engaged in a happy competition to see which can sell at the lowest price. You see this competition at its best in the announcements in the newspapers.

To the man or woman who can go from one of these great bazaars to another, and so make the round of all of them, the trip to Boston must be as much of an adventure as ever it was, even in John Winthrop's day. And, on the whole, more agreeable.

True, the old taverns have gone. There is no George Monck to greet one, at the Blue Anchor, but there are great modern hostelries, quite the equal of the best in the land, model restaurants, to suit every need and every purse, a dozen playhouses, and other attractions without end.

What a fine old world it is, after all!

He Gives Some Advice

The Education of the Voter

No. 16—The President Not an Individual with Arbitrary Power, but the Representative of the People by Whom He Is Paid

By THOMAS TAPPER.

YOU have read the reports of the conventions.

The proceedings consisted of prayers, excitement, hisses, yells and the buzz of the political machine.

You might assume that a body of men, representative of all the people, gathered together to nominate a man capable of filling what is doubtless the greatest office on earth, would realize the responsibility that rests upon themselves. You might expect a certain feeling of awe and solemnity. You might expect that an act so fraught with importance would be taken with the guidance of prayer, but without the disturbance of excitement, hisses and cat-calls.

You might.

What is a President called upon to do?

To begin with, he is the representative of all the people; the head of the nation.

His power comes directly from the people and their welfare is assumed to be the prime object of his consideration.

Only a natural-born citizen may aspire to this office. He must be at least thirty-five years of age and fourteen years a resident of the United States.

The President's term of office is four years. He is eligible for re-election. So far as the Constitution is concerned, a President may be re-elected once, or twice, or many times. Up to date, no man has ever filled the office for more than two terms, and it seems quite unlikely that this precedent will be broken.

The President is Commander-in-Chief of the army and navy of the United States and of the States' militia when called into Federal service.

He is empowered to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses committed against the United States, but his power does not extend to cases of impeachment.

With a two-thirds vote of the Senate he may make treaties with foreign powers, thus extending his influence on behalf of the nation to the world-at-large.

He appoints Ambassadors to foreign nations. In fact, there come within his appointing power, with confirmation of the Senate, about eight thousand offices.

He may convene the Houses of Congress in extra sessions, and he may adjourn them to a date not beyond the next regular session.

From members of his Cabinet he may require written opinions upon their departments. He receives Ambassadors and foreign Ministers.

All bills passed by Congress are brought before him for his signature or his veto.

These, the principal duties of the President, are clearly set forth in the Constitution. The office makes of him a world figure. He takes his place beside Kings and Potentates of whatever name.

He is not an individual with arbitrary power. He is the representative of millions of individuals, with powers that are especially designed and bestowed to secure for every one whom he represents the full blessings of citizenship.

You have only to picture this man as a representative of one hundred millions of people doing business with Congress, with the nine departments of our National activity, through the members of his Cabinet, meeting the representatives of every nation on earth, commanding army and navy, allotting thousands of positions to office-holders, appointing proper representatives to foreign nations, and without specifying further the activities of his office you can appreciate the propriety of a Convention opening with prayer.

But it is doubtful if you can see the fitness of cat-calls, yells, hisses and the rumble of any kind of a roller, steam or otherwise.

For all that is demanded of him, the President of the United States receives a salary and he gets a reputation. The salary is fixed at seventy-five thousand dollars per annum. The reputation is largely, though not wholly, of his own making. Yet no position so open to public scrutiny can be so influenced by conditions that the man himself does not shine through. He may be assisted in his endeavors or he may be thwarted, but his stand on questions, great or small, allows him to show the people, without doubt or uncertainty, what sort of stuff he is made of.

When the parties have held their conventions, and the two or three or more nominees are submitted to the people, you decide, or you should decide, just this question: What man, among them, best measures up to the requirements?

Then you elect that man, or you should elect him. In the course of time he appears once again in public, on the 4th of March, when the Chief Justice of the United States administers the oath of office, which says:

"I do solemnly swear, that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

The inauguration is a more solemn occasion than the conventions. The seriousness of the business to be done stares the man in the face.

And a new period of our history, four years long, stares you, as one of its citizens, in the face.
